Port Huron High School

Port Huron, Michigan

 Come on and -- Join our song for Port Huron High,

The best school in this land.

Grand and glorious we'll be victorious,

Nine a.m. -- grrrowl--Leonard Patterson's stomach let's him know that it's breakfast time.

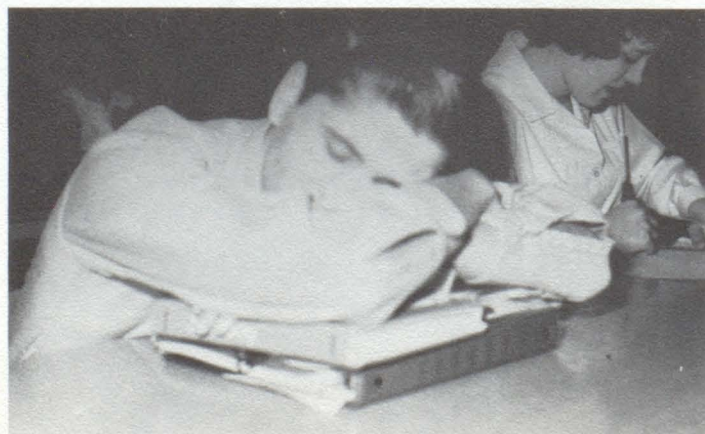

Seven a.m. is awfully early, even for the teachers. Mr. Rossler sometimes finds it hard to make it to school on time, but puts forth an exuberant smile as he finally begins another day.

Oh, no. . .twenty to six already. . .and a date for the game at 6:30! Janet Toles finds that going to school from 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. is not always ideal.

*Trials and tribulations. . .
of a confusing yet fun-filled year.*

The lucky ones who have first hour study hall, such as Allen Kilbourne, can go to sleep till 8:15, (if they don't get caught!)

Neill Hollenshead addresses a rally of "Students for Better Schools."

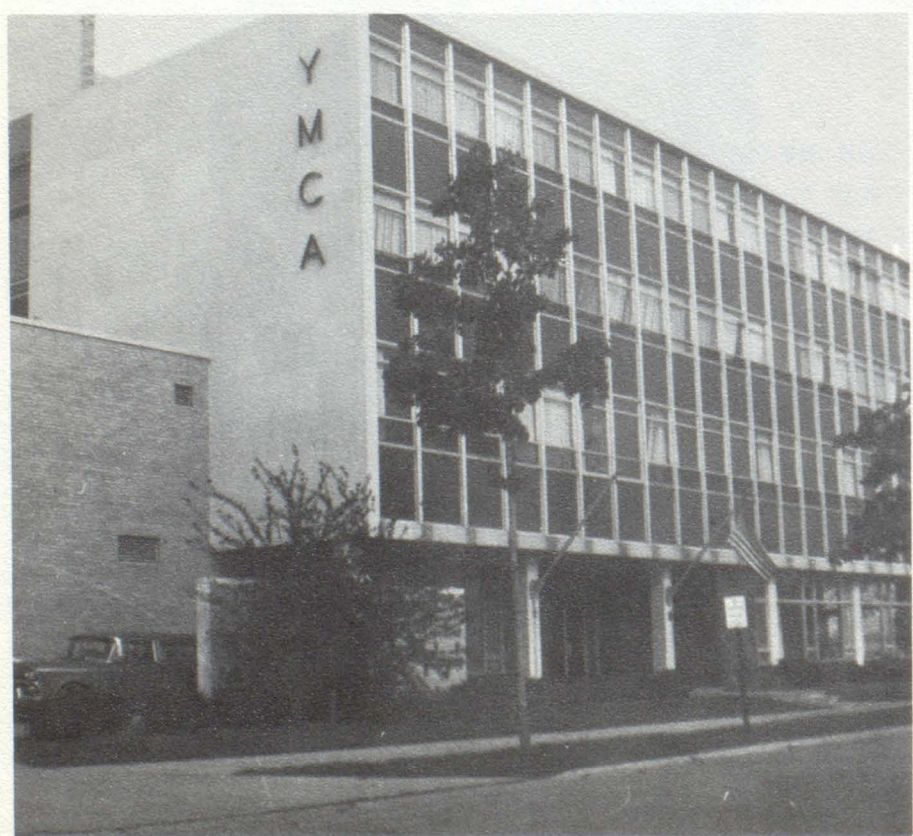

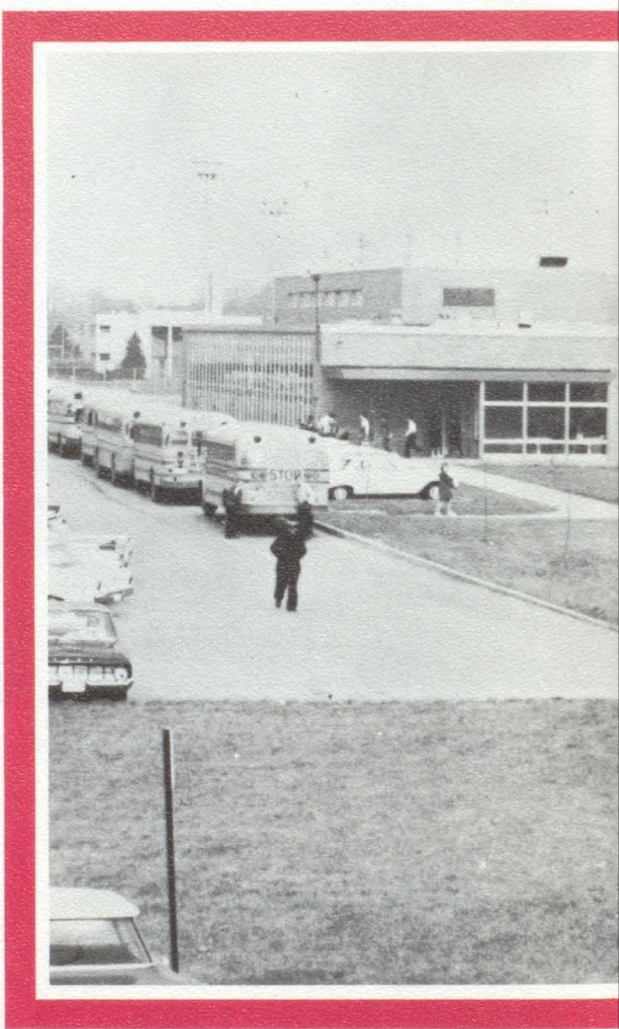

HEAR the rumble in the halls . . . SEE the little freshmen being trampled . . . GLANCE at the many students sitting in the lounge who still don't have their schedules after we've been in school for a week . . . WATCH the teachers as they try to figure out whose snack is whose . . . LOOK at the crowded classrooms . . . NOTICE the despair of the students who can't be with friends and steadies on the opposite shift . . . PEEK out the doors at many crowded buses and a traffic jam of cars . . . LISTEN to the enthusiastic kids who led the "Students for Better Schools" . . .

NOW, turn the other cheek and remember the fun we've had at assemblies, games, and dances, the friendships, the learning we've received . . . Because we're Port Huron High School students . . . We're tops! . . . We are the shining examples of accepting a situation that could have been a whole lot worse if the teachers and pupils hadn't come through with the old "Fight, Fight, Fight!"

Energetic Bethany Stevenson makes sure she gets the idea across.

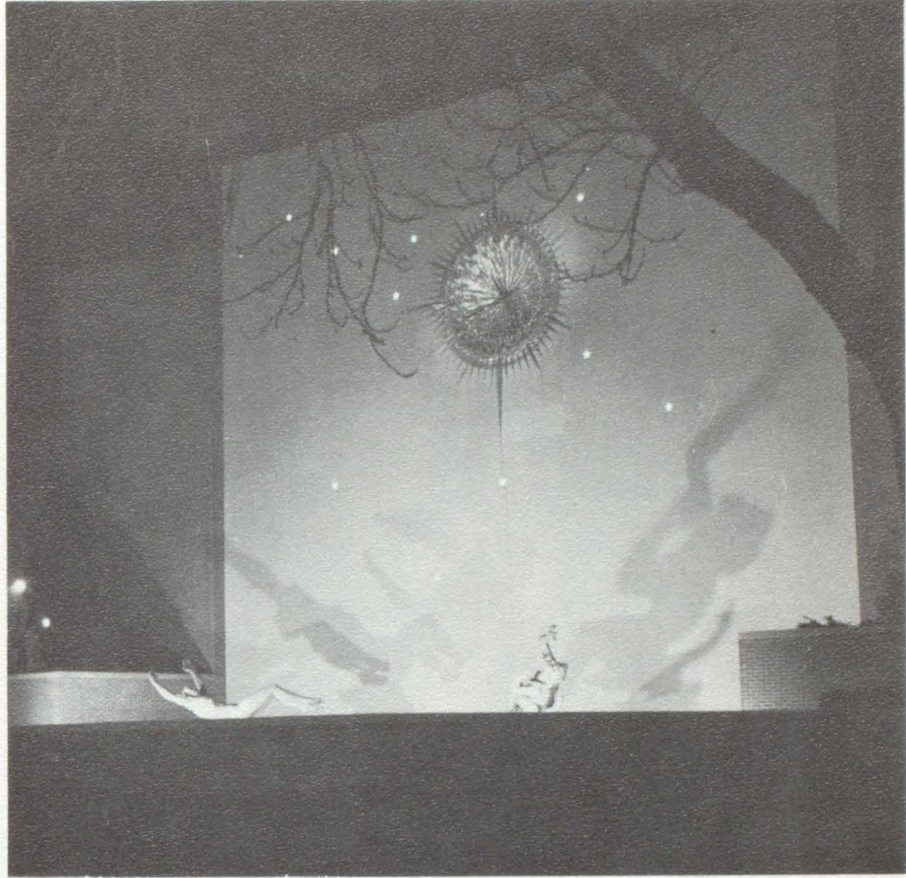

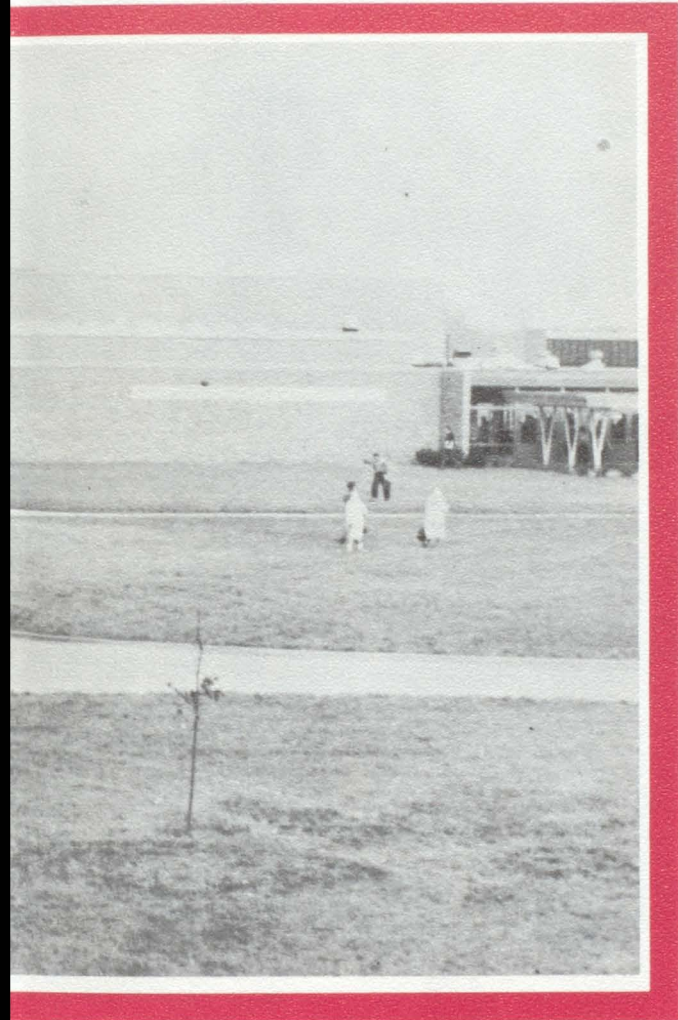

Oh, she's the stronghold of our community,

Howard D Crull
Superintendent
1941 - 1963

Dear Mr. Crull,

As you are retiring from the Port Huron Area Schools' superintendency, the students of PHHS bid you a fond farewell.

Throughout your life you have devoted your time and talents to better education as a teacher, a principal, and superintendent, with experience of forty-two years plus in Michigan.

You are recognized for your work in the largest annexation in the reorganization of school districts in the history of the State of Michigan.

Having been a member of several state educational committees, and currently serving on the State Commission on Community College Development, Past President of the MASA and the Michigan School Masters

Club, twice President of St. Clair River Area Superintendent's Association, and a participant in many other worthwhile projects, we feel that you, Mr. Crull, have had as your deepest interest while in Port Huron that of providing the best possible education and facilities for the young people of our area.

Best wishes from the Students of PHHS

On to victory.

Dean of Students
Mr. Ernest Gerke

Assistants to Mr. Sommerville: Mr. James Overly, Mr. Gaylord Feick.

Because of the many changes this year, students aren't always sure of what they can and cannot do. Marsha Hill and Allen Drescher, two of the junior class officers, seek the advice of Mr. Sommerville and Miss Wiese before making plans for coming activities.

Shall our watchword be.

Assistant Principal Miss Florence Wiese

So — come — on — join — our — song — for — Port — Huron — High.

Curriculum

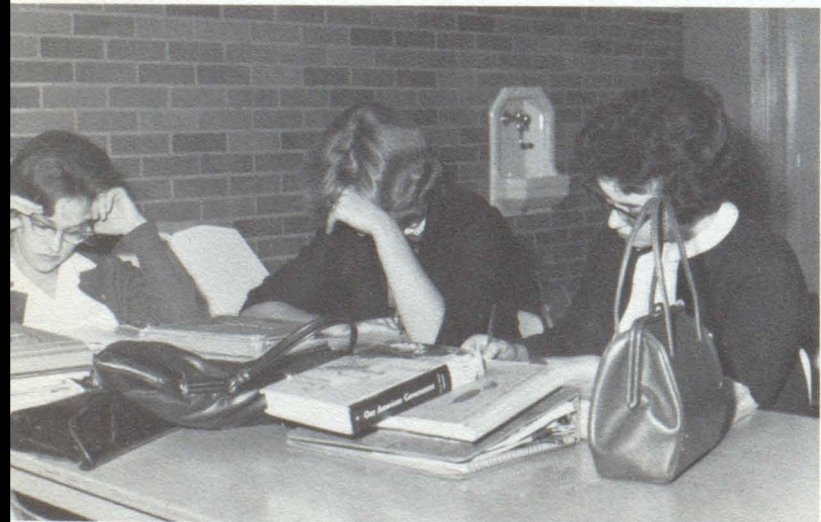

From sunup to sundown - - P. H. H. S.

On voting day juniors are checked to see if they are registered.

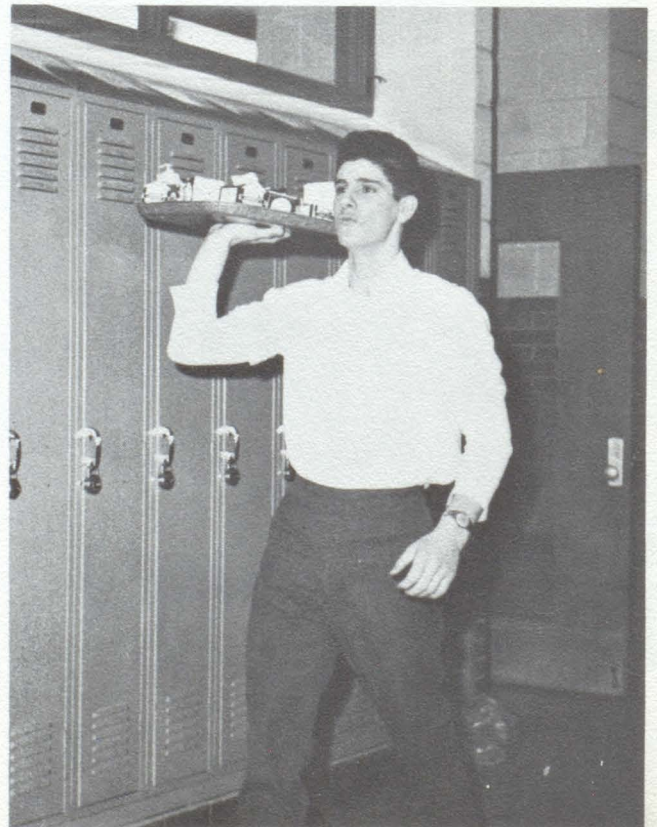

Juniors, who took the National Merit Scholarship Examination, meet in the library to learn their scores.

Ineen Irwin, Sharon Wedge, and Pauline Eckenswiller aren't "posing."

Scott Hensel takes the part of interviewer at an election assembly.

A familiar sight third and eight hours every day-- getting set for snacks.

is in full swing. . .

For those students who aren't wanderers--this is how the halls look during class time.

Holly Ulmer does her stint at a football game.

Mary Bronson gives her Student Council report to her homeroom.

Ernestine Tillman, Call Receptionist, makes an appointment for a student to see his counselor.

James Miller gives an oral book report on "Science is A Sacred Cow" in Mrs. Houck's fourth-hour Senior English Composition class.

Impromptu speeches and term papers-

Oral opinions on material read in American literature class lead to better understanding. Here, Thomas Jones reports in Mrs. Clemons' class.

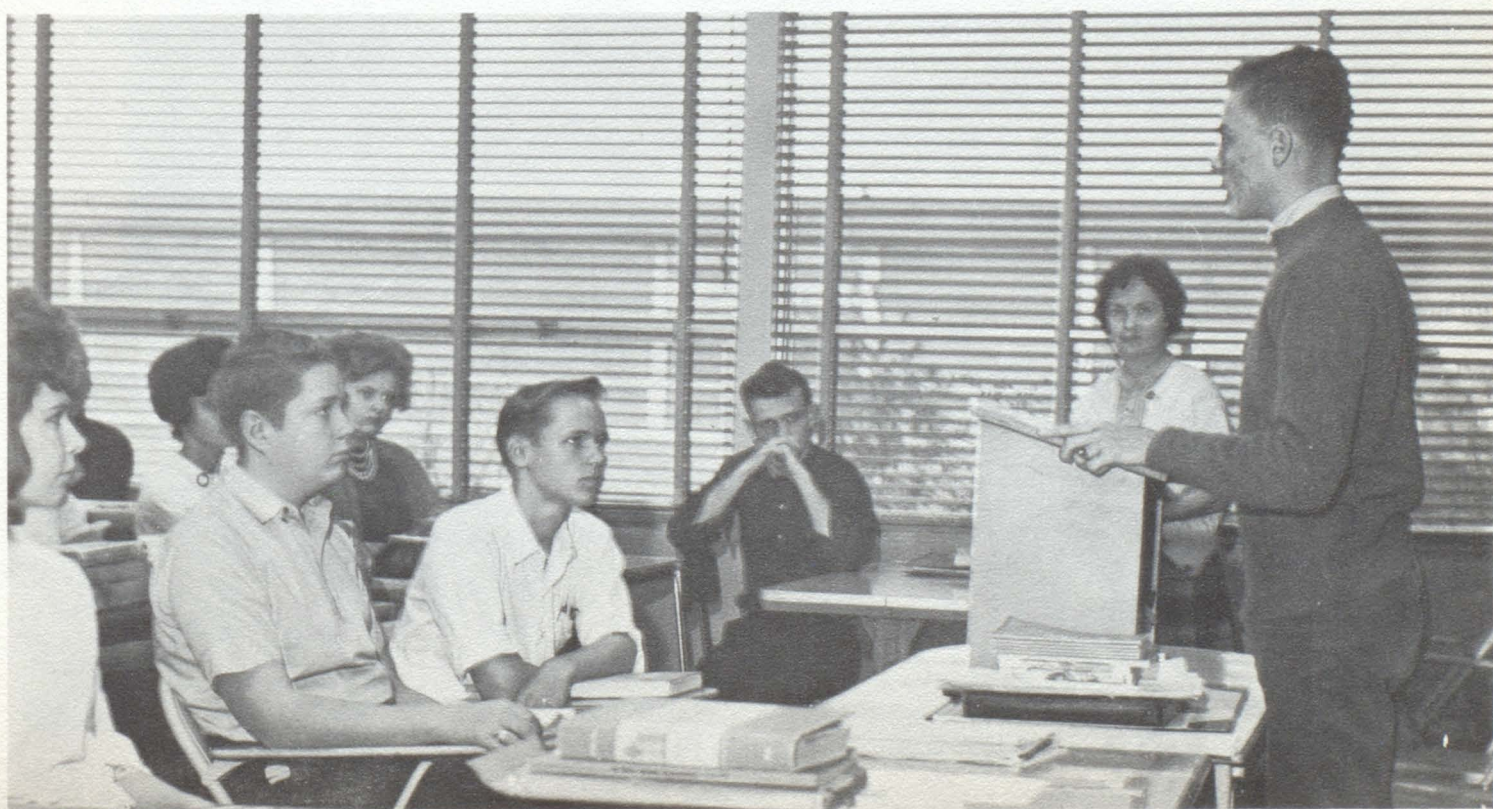

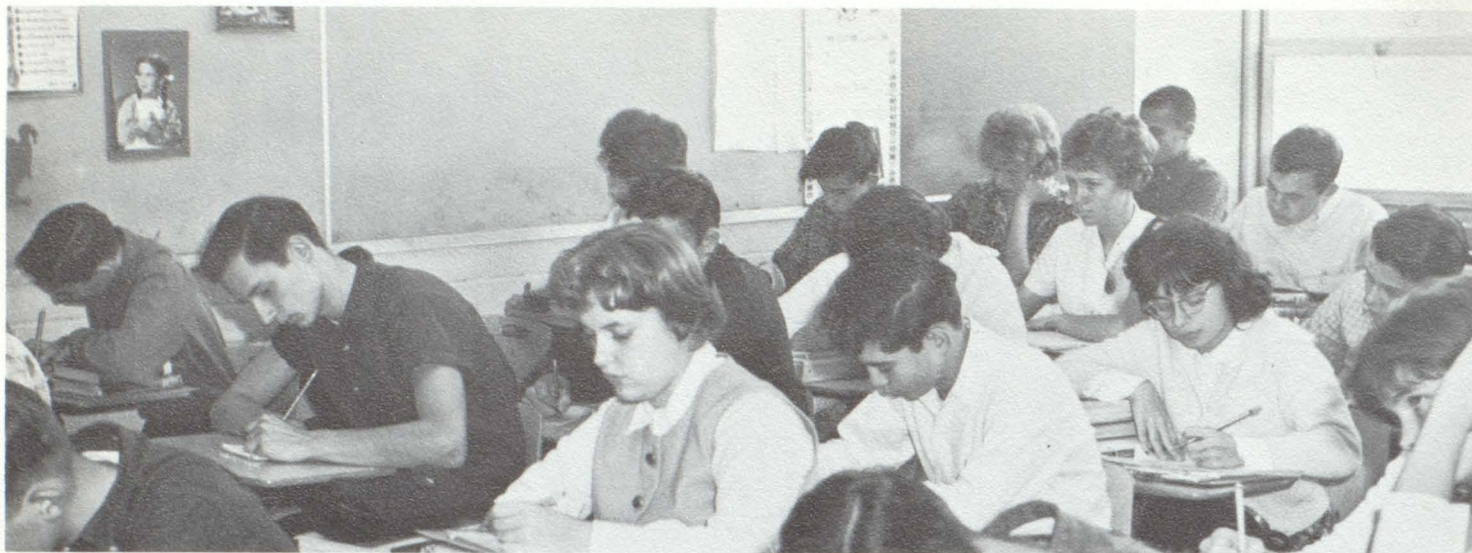

Students go over the day's literature assignment as Mr. Malone gives individual help in third-semester English.

all part of essential training in English. . .

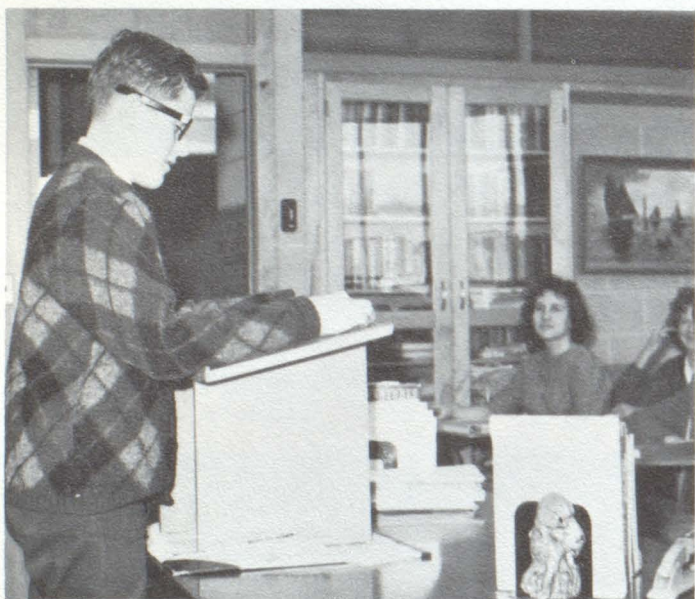

Speech students gain practice with time speeches after learning the basic fundamentals of a good presentation. Thomas Atkins takes his turn in Mrs. Sickelsteel's speech class.

In classroom and in library

Mrs. Maxwell gives her communications class a weekly spelling test.

Louis Foster gives his non-fiction book report, "They Were Expendable," in Miss Meyer's ninth grade English class. Frequent book reports are required in English classes which gives students an opportunity to become acquainted with good reading.

Mr. Sims' English literature class spends the hour reading books for six-weeks' reports.

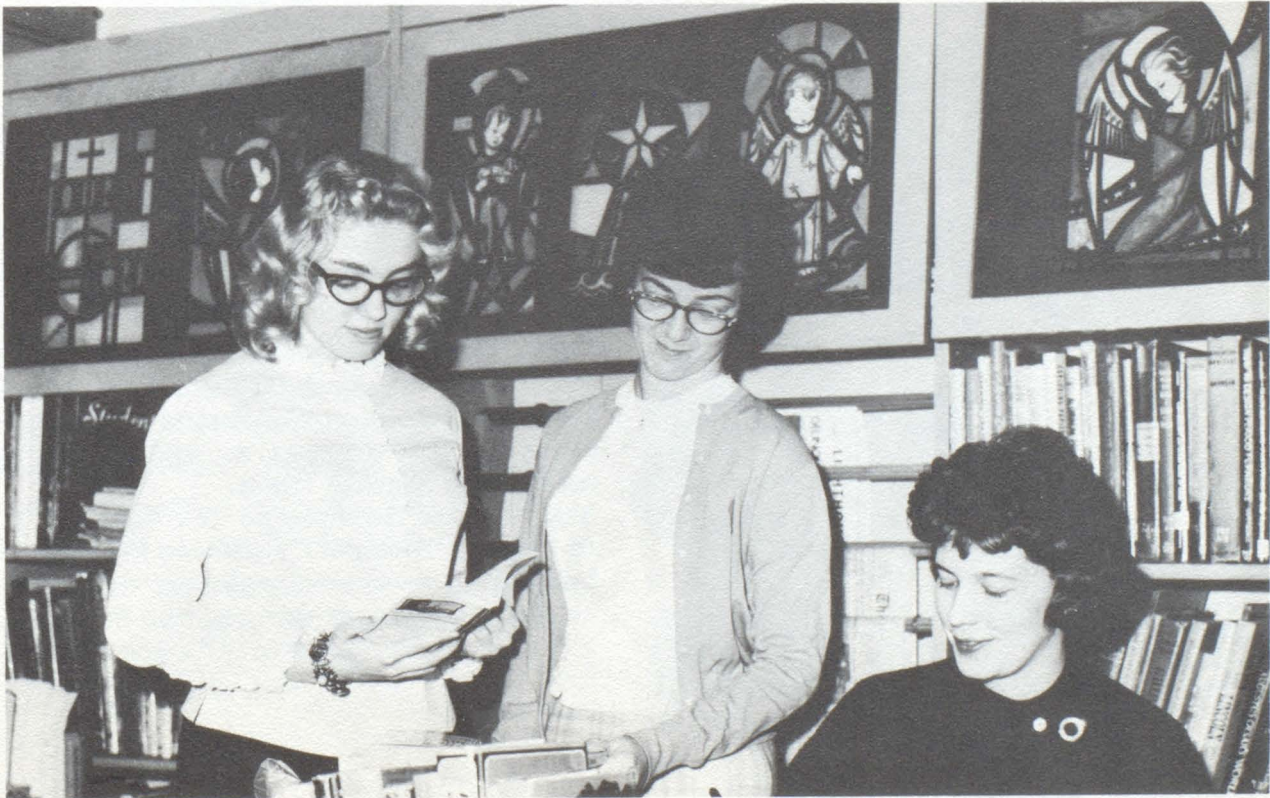

students do special reading and research papers.

Mr. Stevens and Mrs. O'Connell check out books for waiting students.

"Bound" in their hall of knowledge the librarians have "volumes" of equipment to aid every student at P.H.H.S. Each librarian is pleased to help you find references, guides, or magazines, and to show how to use the card file, Ruth McGinnis and Maureen Goudie as one of their many jobs, help Mrs. Steig to catalog and mark new books.

This second-year Spanish class reviews carefully under the watchful eye of Mr. Bascom.

Oral recitations give Hola

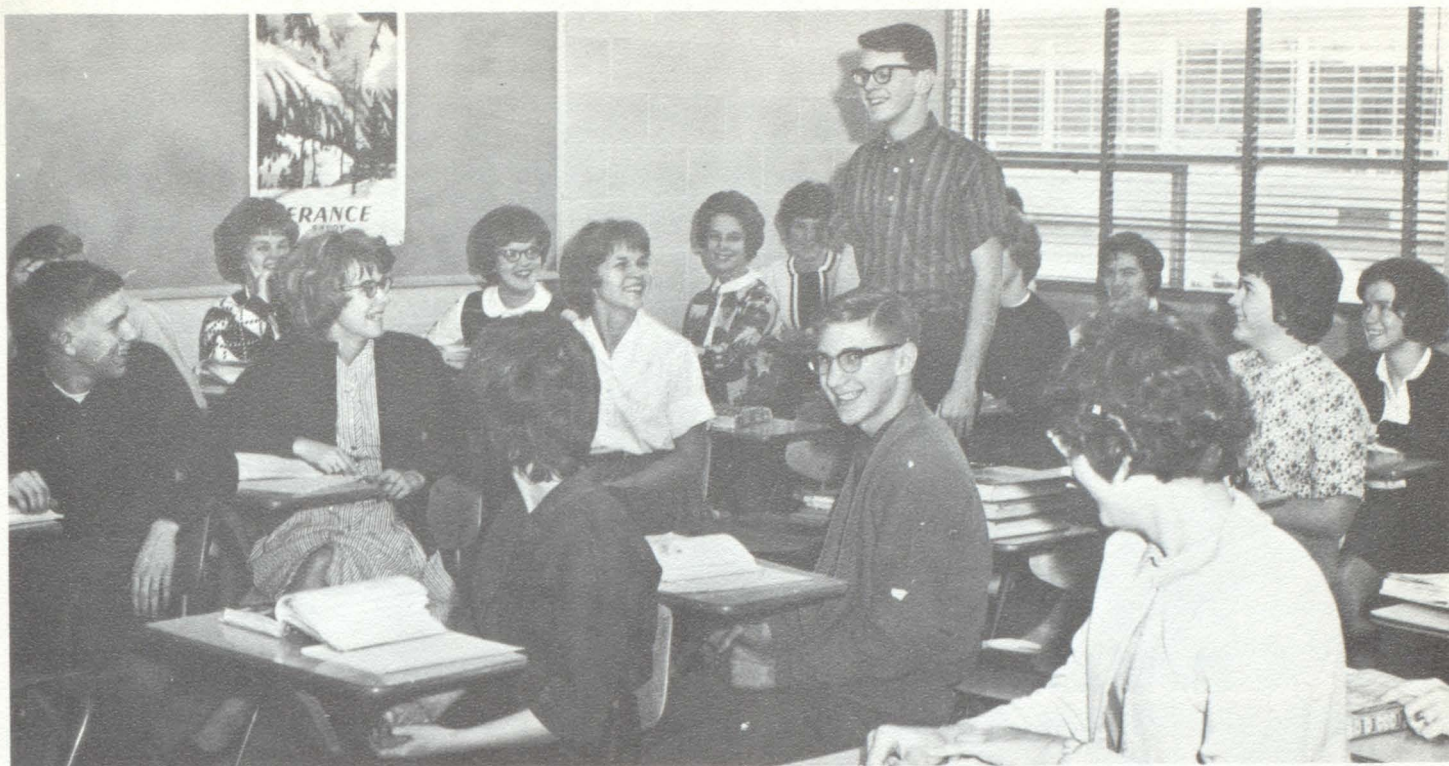

"ЗДРАВСТВУЙТЕ"

Speeches were a prominent part of learning the Russian language. James Shaw gives a forceful gesture in Miss Rush's advanced Russian class.

"Como esta usted? Muy bien, gracias." Spanish is an ever increasingly popular language. It is not uncommon to catch a class in the process of giving speeches or viewing Spanish films.

You can be transported into another land by taking Russian. Besides learning the language the Russian student is taken on an imaginary tour through Red Square, the Kremlin, Moscow University and a Russian factory to accent the many customs of Russian life.

Peter George gives a French recitation in Miss Winborn's second-year French class.

language students more fluency in speaking. . .

"Bonjour"

"Salveo"

"Bonjour. Comment allez-vous?"

What an enchanting language French is. An imaginary walk down a Parisian boulevard, a look at French literature and history, a new verb conjugation, all go into making this class a truly delightful one.

Latin may be dead, but not so for these interested students who find it a worth-while course. One often hears them singing Christmas carols and other well-known verses in the language, as well as strengthening their vocabulary by playing hang-man and Latin bingo. Latin also helps the pupil in his other subjects--word usage, meaning, and pronunciation.

Students in Miss Edward's third-year Latin class review for the day's lesson.

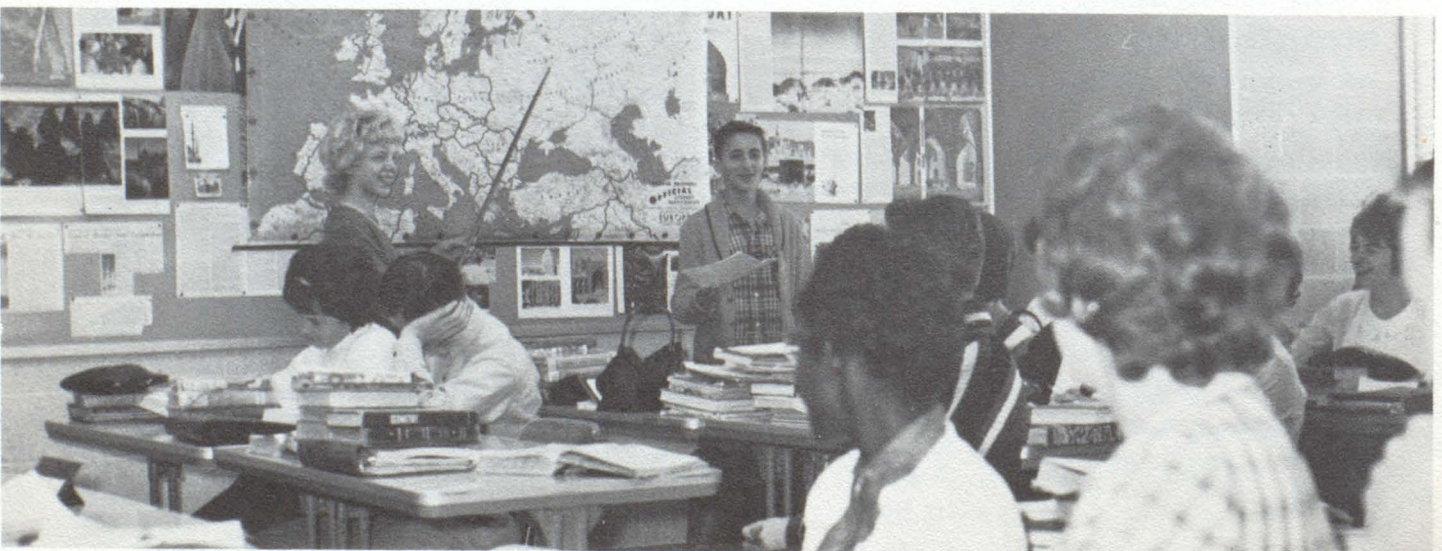

The past is related to the present in telling

Mrs. Patterson's American history students learn the value of using the library to further their knowledge of the past.

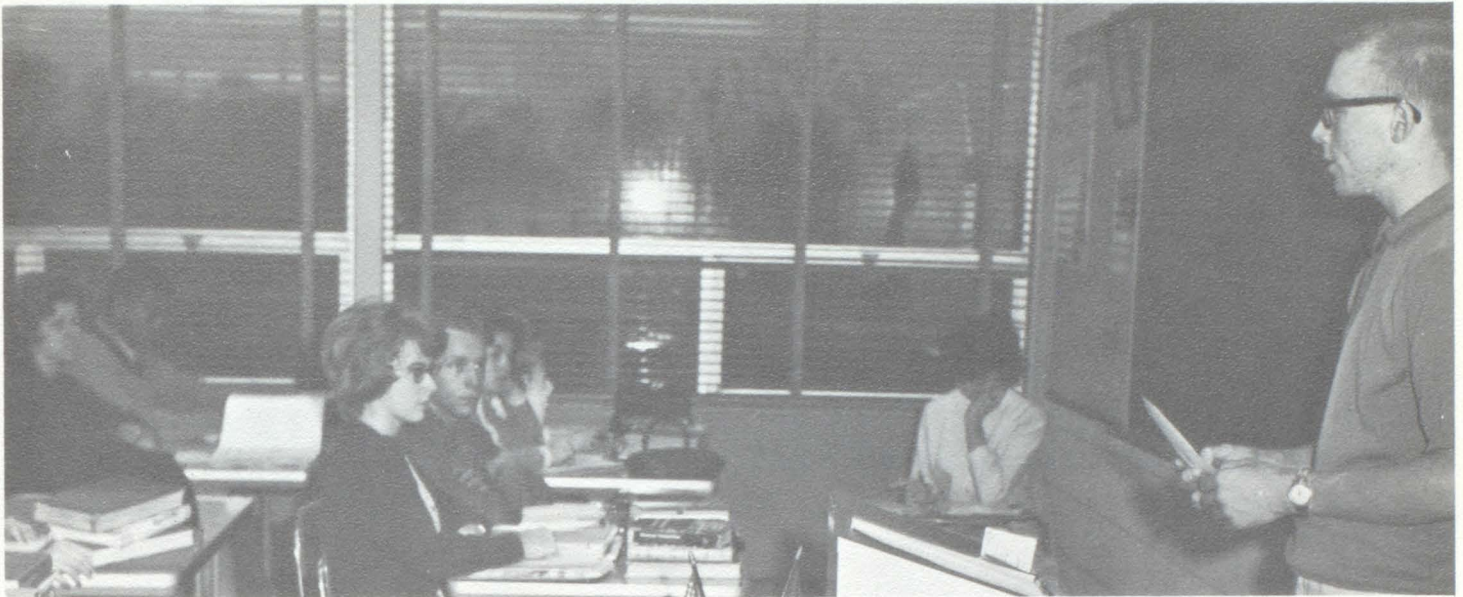

In Mr. Pesano's ninth grade civics class, Simone Oden gives an oral report on the city manager form of government, a topic of vital interest to Port Huron.

Penelope Haugner and David Knisley outline the boundaries of the Roman Empire for the benefit of Miss Miller's world history class.

the story of man and his achievements. . .

The sun is just coming up as Gerald Spring gives an oral report on religion in Miss Warren's sociology class.

World history takes us back to the dinosaur days, and pauses for a glimpse of the Dark Ages, the great religions of the world, the Renaissance period, and finally modern times. American history is concerned with our first settlers, how we won our independence, the Presidents, the Constitution, and the laws based upon it.

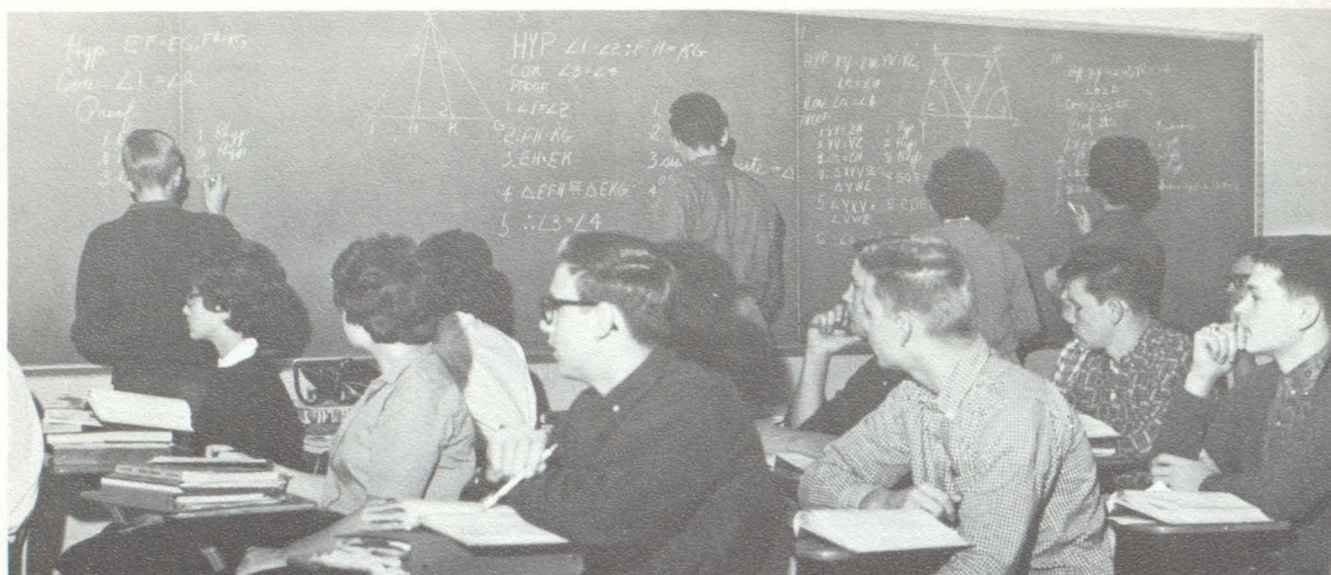

Civics is an introduction to other social studies. A general look at everything related to government, religion, economics, and American history.

American government helps the students understand the country in which they will soon have a major role. Duties of the Presidents, political parties, national conventions, and city governmental procedures are but a few of the points covered by Seniors in this class.

Sociology, another Senior subject, is a study of society in its "normal" functioning to show how human beings live and work together in common routine patterns.

Mr. Lincoln's government class discusses the changes which will be made in the running of our state government if the new proposed constitution is adopted.

Students work out their geometry homework problems on the board while the rest of the class compare their proofs.

Algebra is an exact science. It deals with negative and imaginary numbers and uses letters and other symbols as well as numbers in calculating.

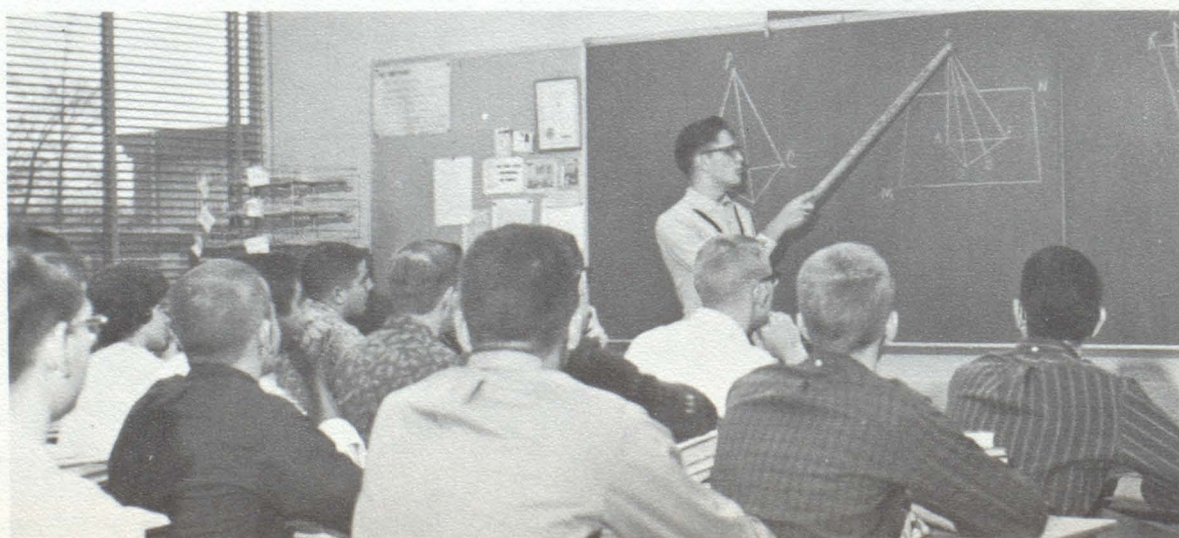

If you find yourself in a class where you are constructing two dimensional figures according to directions and specifications and you are working with proofs, angles, lines, and compasses, then you are taking Plane Geometry.

But if you have been reading Plato's "Republic" - a study in pure logic, or working with spheres, cylinders and cones - then you are in a Solid Geometry class.

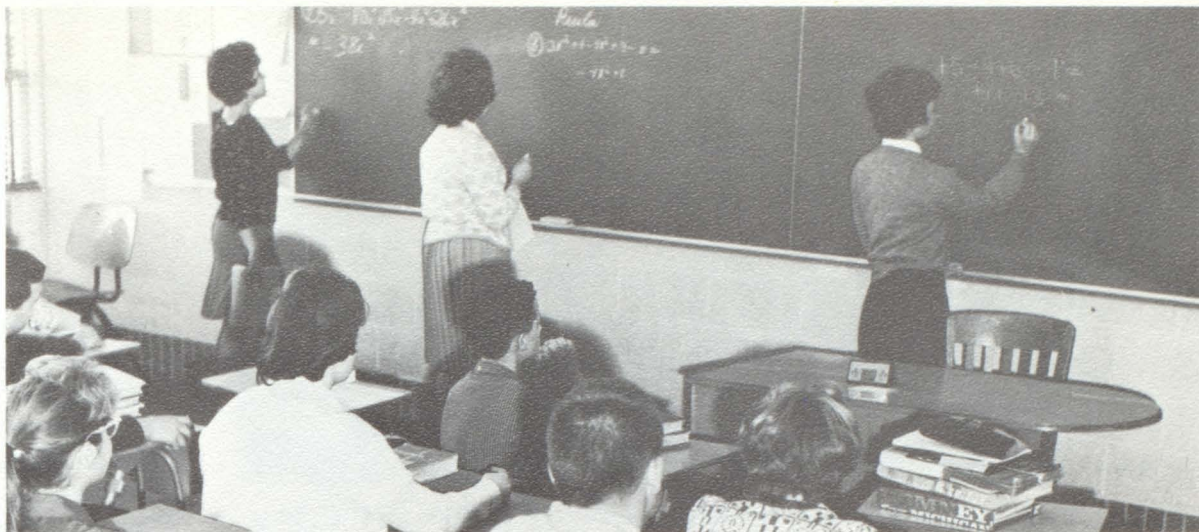

Trigonometry - a word composed of three Greek words meaning "three-angle measurement" - indicates that the subject deals with measurements connected with a triangle.

Mathematics finds solutions

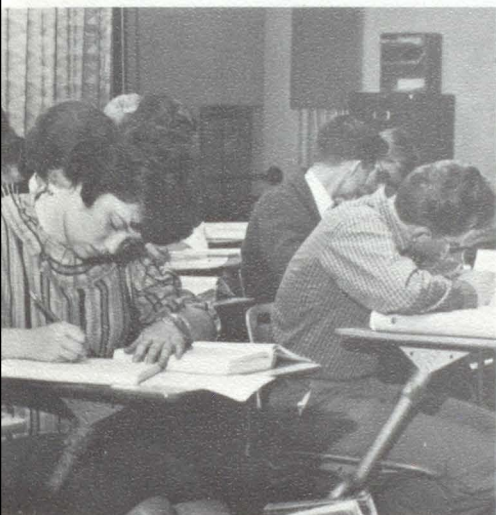

William Zuehlke explains the solution to the problem in solid geometry as the class listens.

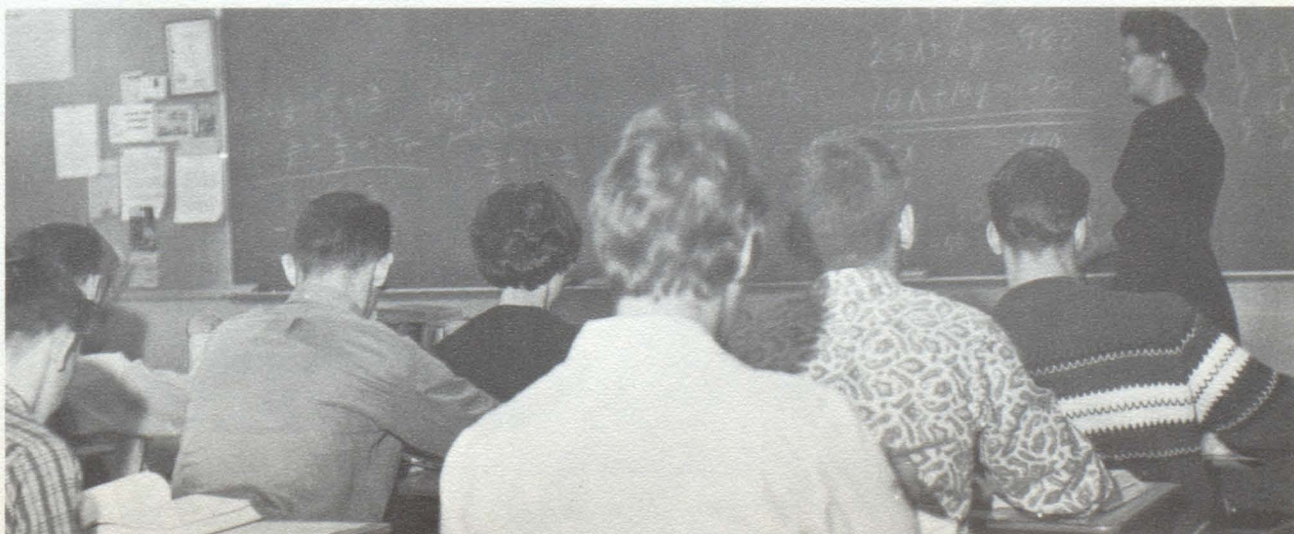

Algebra I and II deal with the use of letters and symbols as well as numbers to solve simple equations.

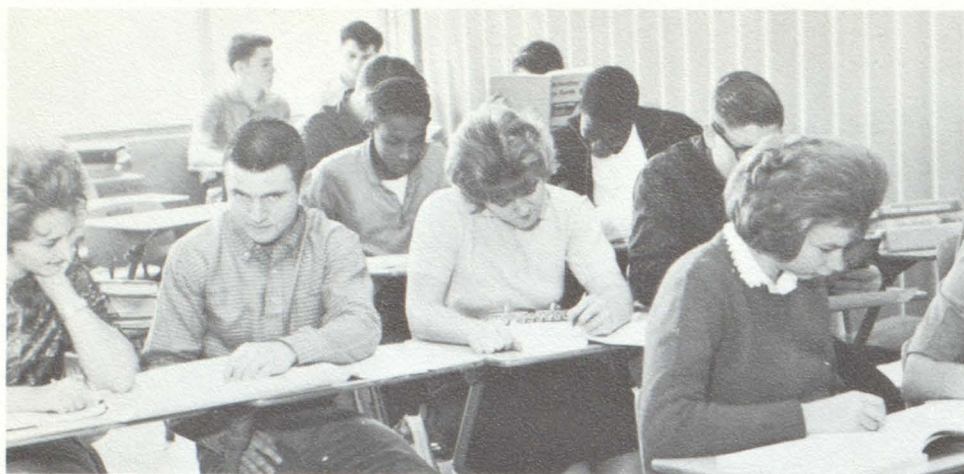

Miss Stewart looks on as her general math pupils complete a test during the hour. General math begins in the ninth grade, continues in the tenth grade, and is an elective in the eleventh grade. It is a course in which students review addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division of whole numbers, common fractions and decimal fractions. Such practical studies as the use of instruments of measure are emphasized.

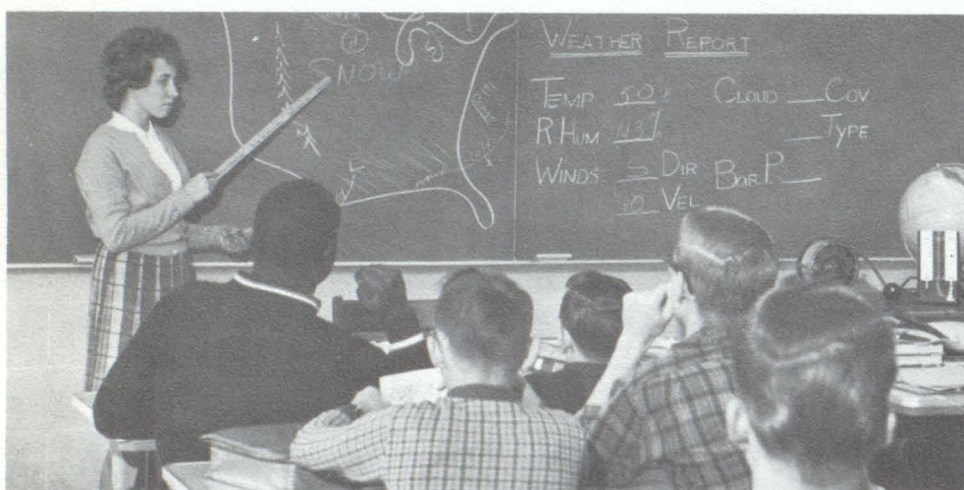

to the mystery of numbers. . .

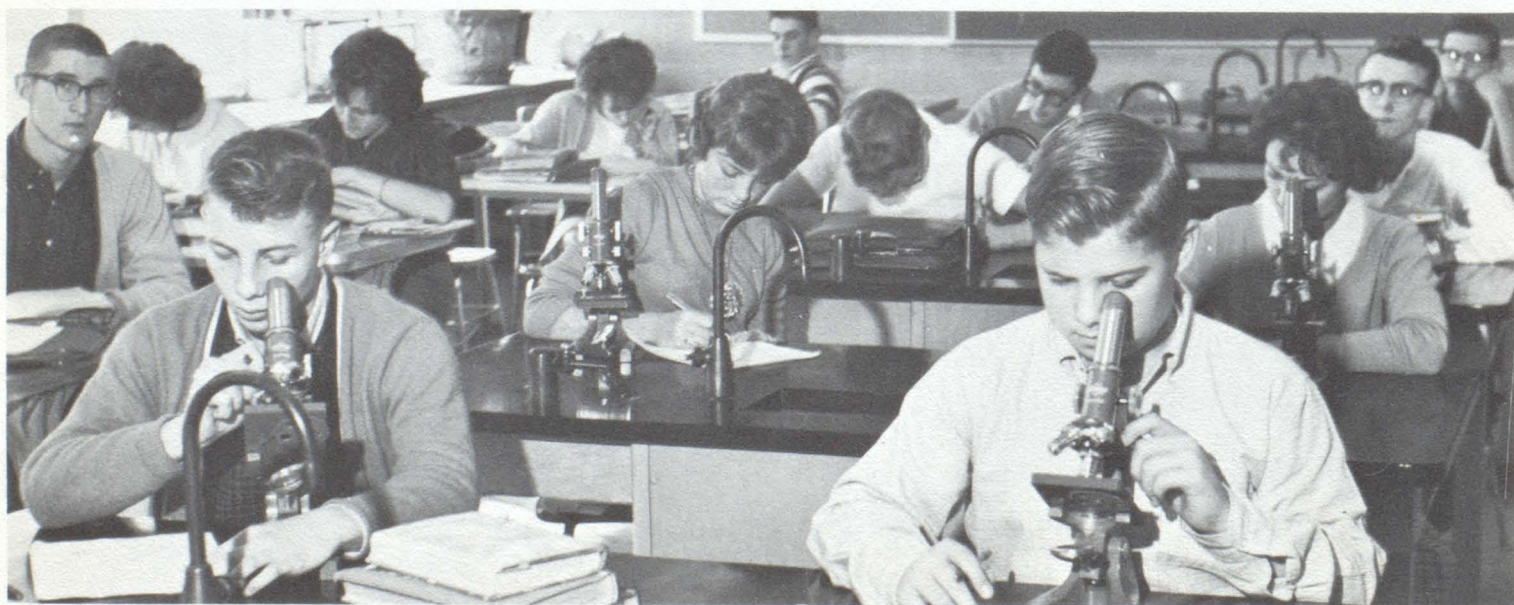

Miss Neil conducts a review with her third-semester algebra students for a coming test.

Earth science students use maps and charts in their study of the formations and atmosphere of the earth.

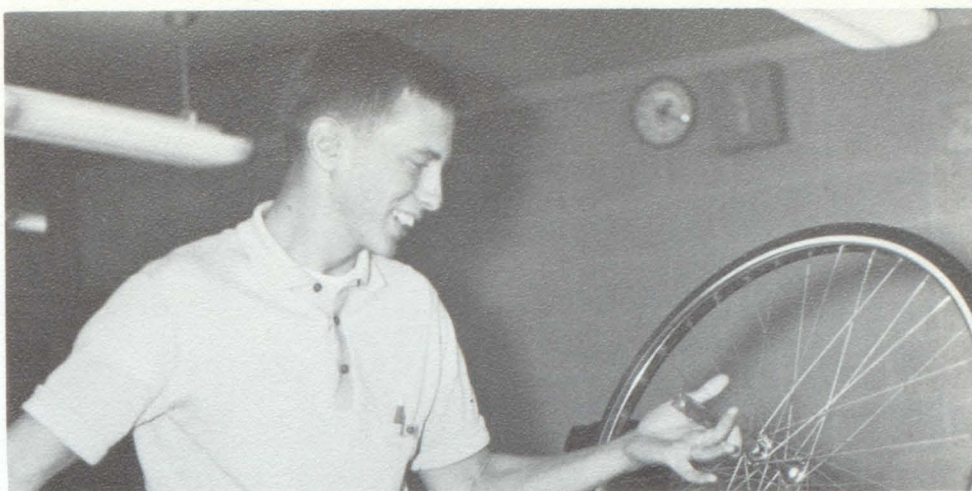

Sharon Mooney explains the formation and travel of weather fronts in general science class.

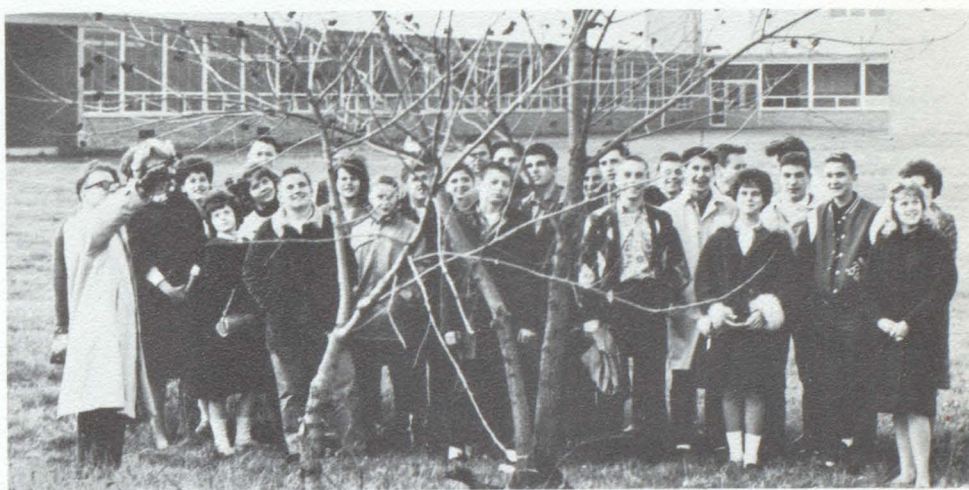

Mr. Richard's biology class explores cell structures with microscopes as well as learning the proper use of the instruments.

world of wonder

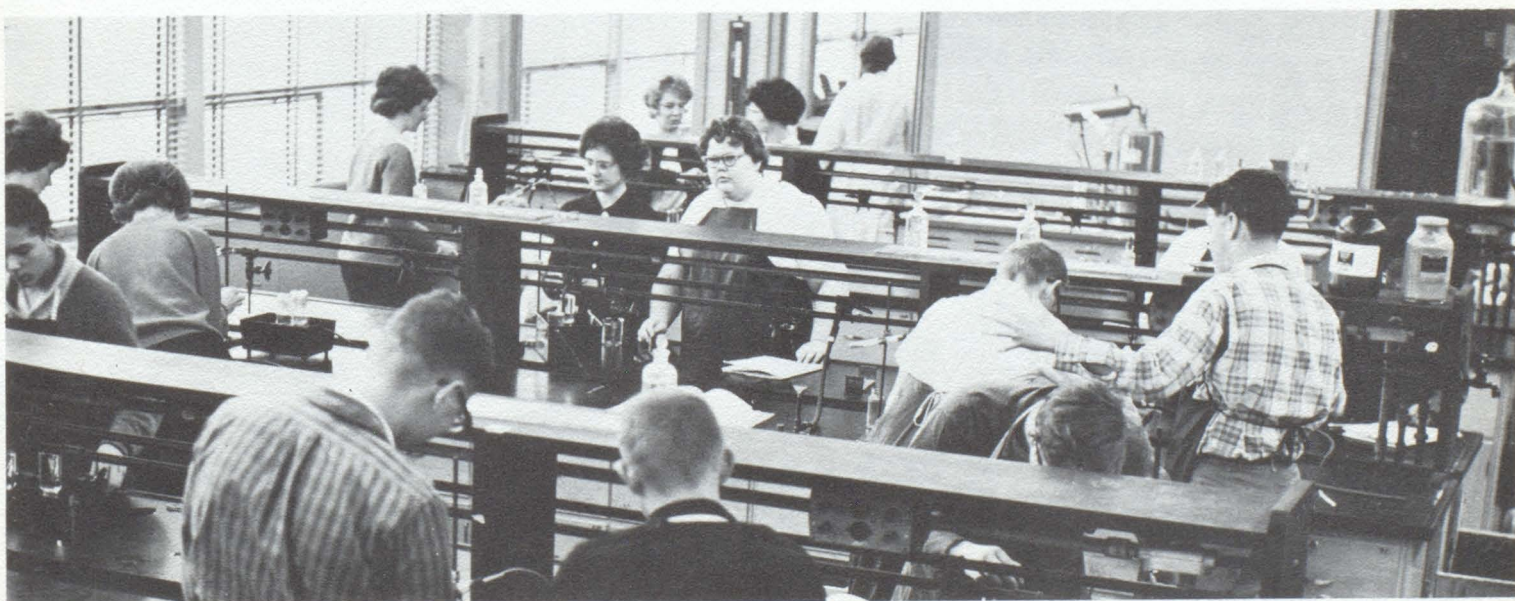

Laboratory work gives experience and fun to all future chemists. Biology is concerned with the physical basis of life -- cell structure, plant structure, life processes of insects, and various insect diseases. Dissecting worms, frogs and crayfish and lab practicals all make up interesting sections in Biology. Solids, liquids, gases, motion, work, machines, power, and strength of materials are fully explored in Physics class. The solution of practical problems is stressed to aid the student in thinking along a straight, clear path.

Michael Gilroy demonstrates centrifugal force with one of the many instruments for experimentation in Mr. Bond's physics class.

Mr. Phillips takes his biology class outside to introduce them first-hand to nature.

Classroom experiments create interest and provide an excellent foundation for future endeavors in the field of chemistry.

Industrial Arts - -

Proper training in use of hand tools,

Mr. Payton explains one of the many parts of an engine as the auto theory class benefits by seeing the actual part.

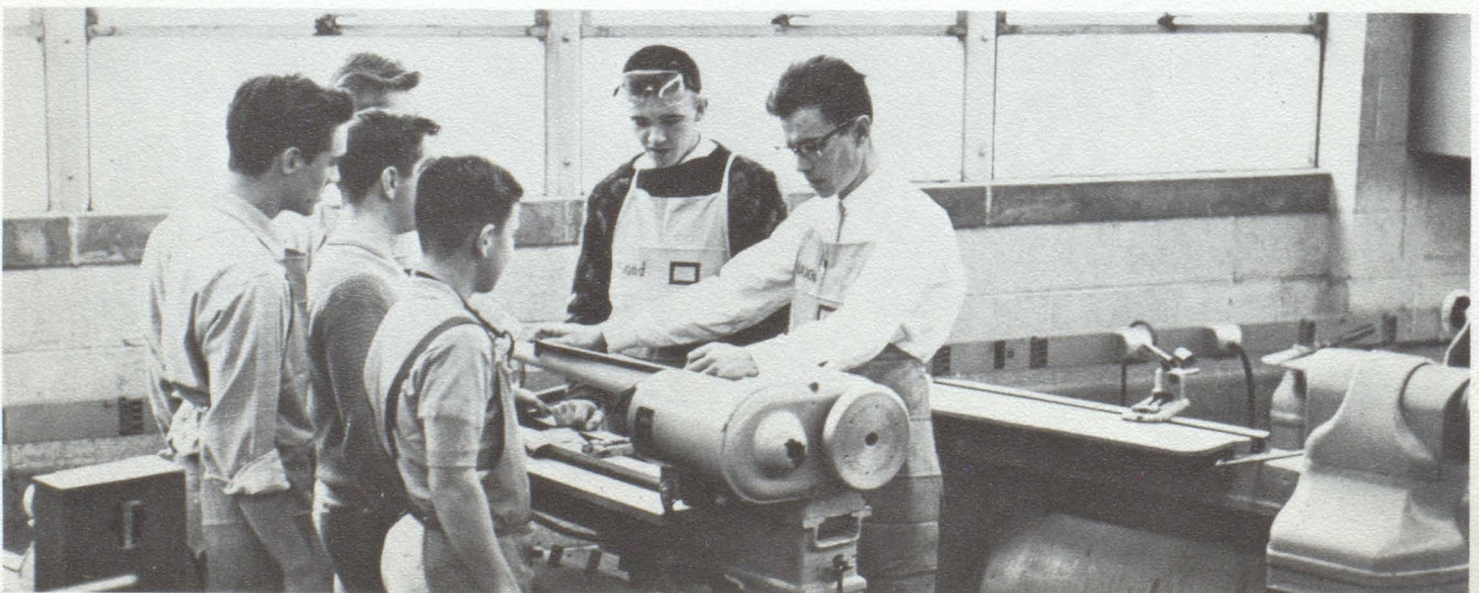

Pre-vocational experience is one of the main purposes of industrial arts. Blueprint reading and machine operations are covered in machine shop.

Woodwork is designed to develop skills and teach proper constructional methods of such things as chair construction, upholstery, lathe projects, and house construction.

Machine drawing deals with the use of symbols and standards and the construction of gears, screws, and cams. While a course in architectural drawing gives the student a chance to draw floor and elevation plans as well as detail plans.

Cutting, filing, drilling, tapping, and polishing iron and steel are projects found in general metals. This course is not designed to teach a trade, but rather to discover if the student has a liking and aptitude for metal working.

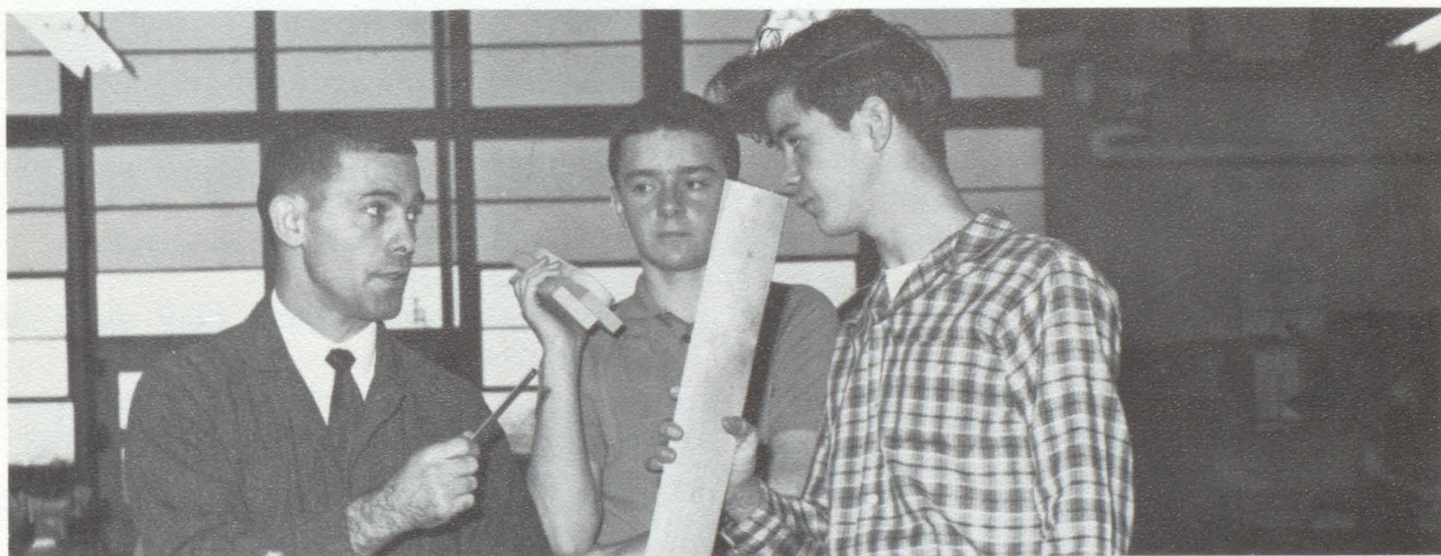

Mr. Buckman demonstrates the use of the lathe in his advanced wood class.

welding, and machine operations. . .

Students receive advice from Mr. Cook in machine shop.

Mr. Bonito stresses exact measuring to Donald Hering, while Steven Relken waits his turn for special instruction.

Mr. Belt's mechanical drawing classes learn the value of accuracy when drawing in detail.

Business education students develop skills for Chris Konye and Heather Krenke operate the dictaphone which is just one of the many machines the business education students are taught to use in Mr. Bargiel's Office Machines class.

Miss Birdsall's advanced typing class takes a five-minute timing.

"Click, click, clickety, click" go the keys of the many typewriters--"Posture, stroking, eyes on copy." Typing I students first acquire moderate speed and accuracy; later, they are introduced to the business letter.

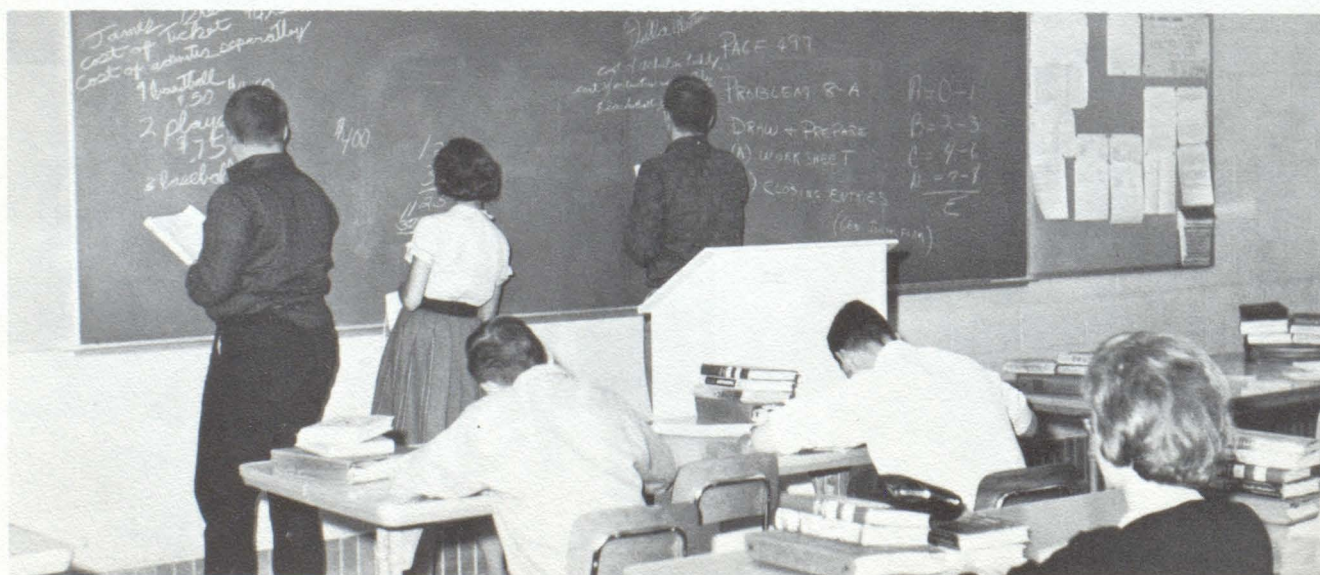

"Scratch, scrape" go the pens drawing the fancy scrolls in shorthand, the professional language of the business world. Beginning students learn to read it carefully; and by the end of the year, their goal is to write it at sixty words a minute. Advanced students hope to write at one hundred words a minute.

"Click, clank, click" go the ditto, mimeograph, adding machines, manual rotary calculators, and the transcription machines in office machines class.

Future bookkeepers labor away on their ledgers and journals.

Noisy? Yes, a bit--but business education is much more--it is a direct path for job opportunities and it is fun!

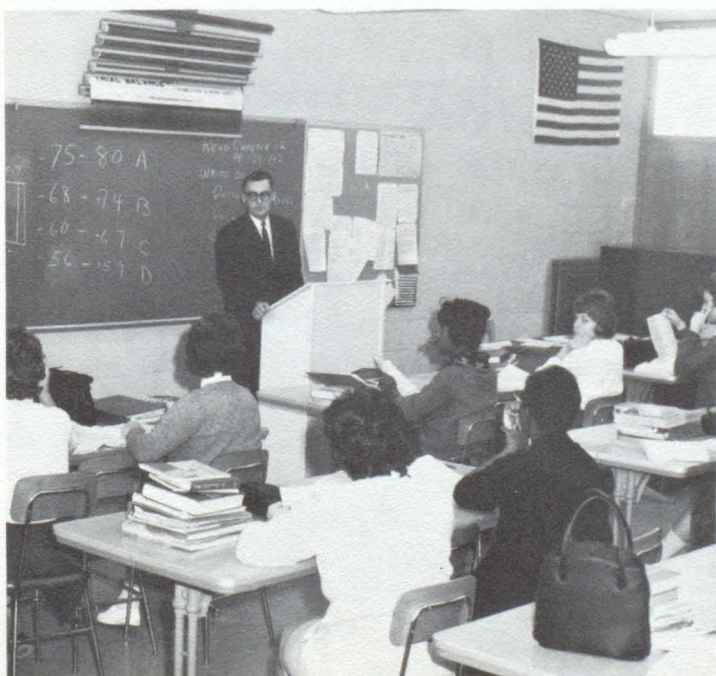

Mr. Zyrowski's general business students are working on their Math unit.

future secretarial and clerical work. . .

The basic typing techniques are stressed in first-semester typing.

After going over the results of a recent test, Mr. Rossler's bookkeeping class listens to instructions for the next project.

Mrs. Morris' Shorthand students learn to read shorthand by the two-finger method before they are introduced to writing.

Cooking and sewing serve not only as

Barbara Howe, Nancy Beam, Mary Swift, Ann Borgerson, and Patricia Atkins show some of the materials they use in planning interior decorating for the home, in Mrs. Alexander's advanced homemaking class.

Ellen Bartlett and Cynthia Davis prepare one of their many tasty dishes.

Students in homemaking classes will be our Emily Posts of tomorrow. Table etiquette, preparation and serving of appetizing meals, marketing and budgeting are but a few of the units of study.

Learning about textiles, becoming familiar with sewing machines, and the complicated task of laying out a pattern, remaking a garment, making alterations, and pressing, all go into the making of an interesting clothing class.

In home and family living students learn how to become useful citizens by discussing such topics as dating, religion, marriage, parenthood, and managing the family income.

hobbies, but as useful arts. . .

Miss Blackburn's beginning homemaking class learns the difficult art of carving a turkey for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Connie Gauthier, Katherine Hock, Emily Almanza, Lula Davis, Dorothy Recker, and Vicki Leathorn work on special assignments in Miss Moore's advanced clothing class.

Mrs. Brown's home and family living class learns the principles of living co-operatively with those around.

Building strong and healthy bodies.

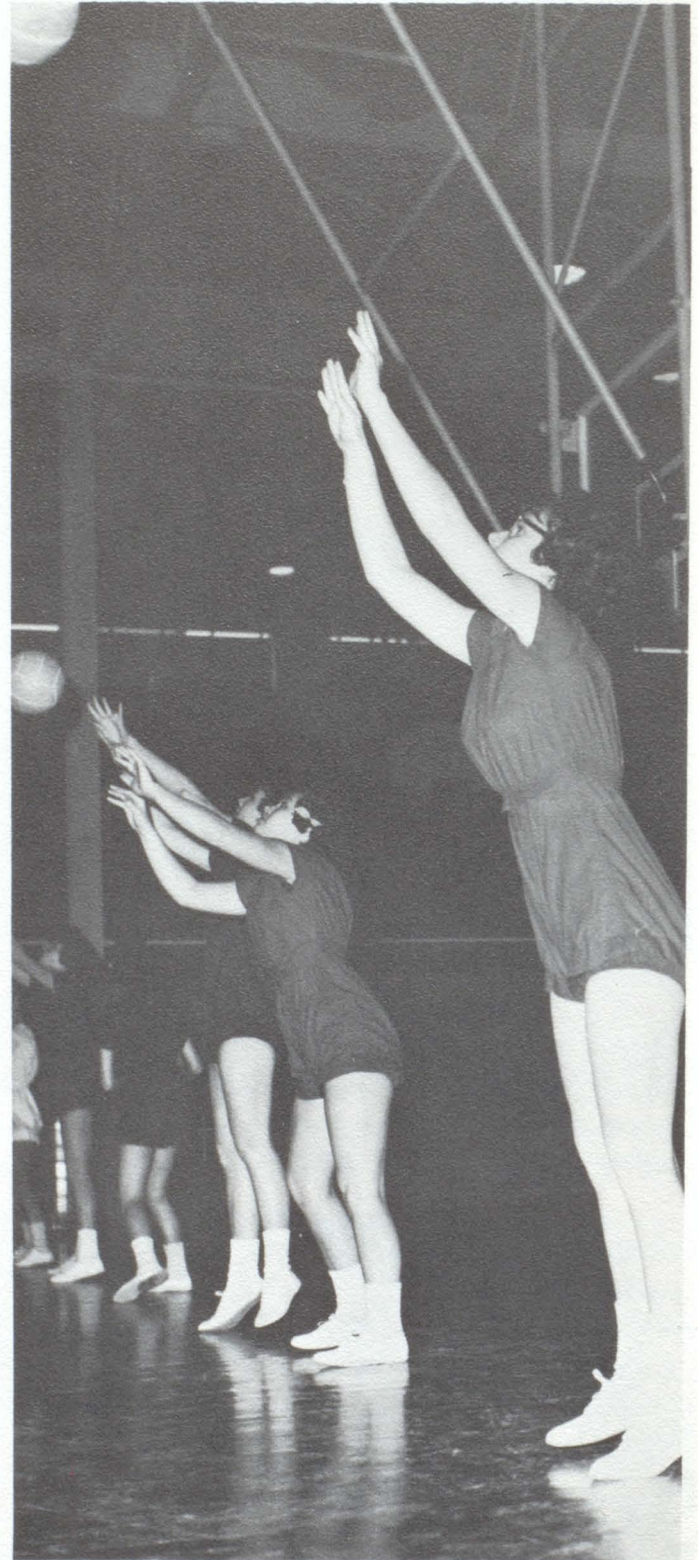

Practice of Swedish gymnastics gives exercise to many unused muscles. It also gives a new sense of rhythm and timing to the students.

"Class, halt - 1-2-3-4." All P.H.H.S. girls grow to know this phrase well. It is a sound connected with good grooming, manners, and social finesse, in trimming the waistlines, and with rules and techniques for such games as basketball, field hockey, tennis, and volleyball.

In addition, the girls receive excellent training in First Aid.

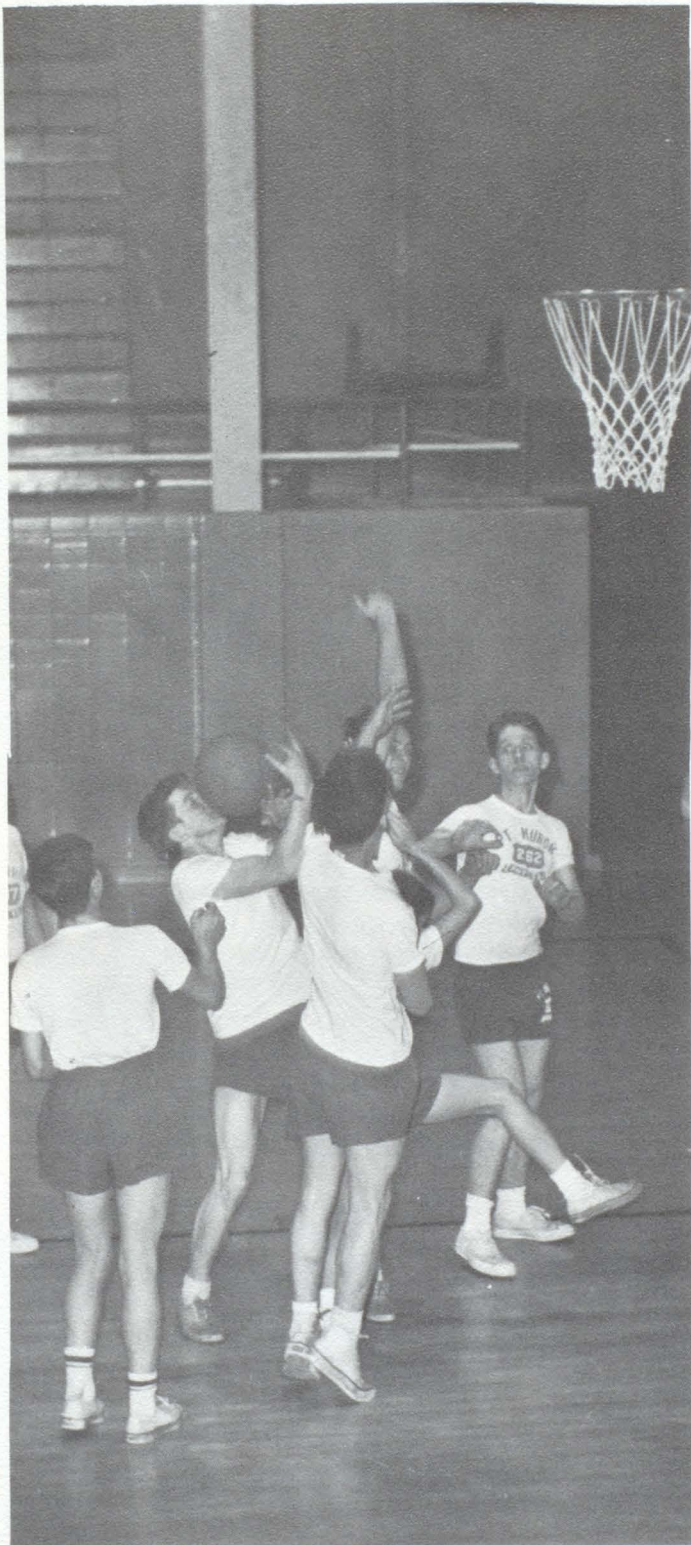

Group instruction on volley ball rotation during the tournaments is common in the girls' gym classes.

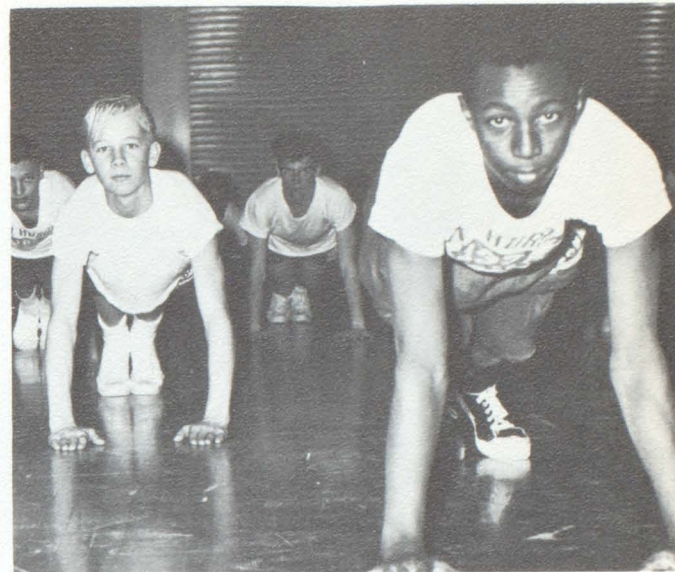

Wall volley gives the girls an opportunity to develop co-ordination in receiving and returning a volley ball.

Boys strive for a greater number of push-ups. 100 is their goal!

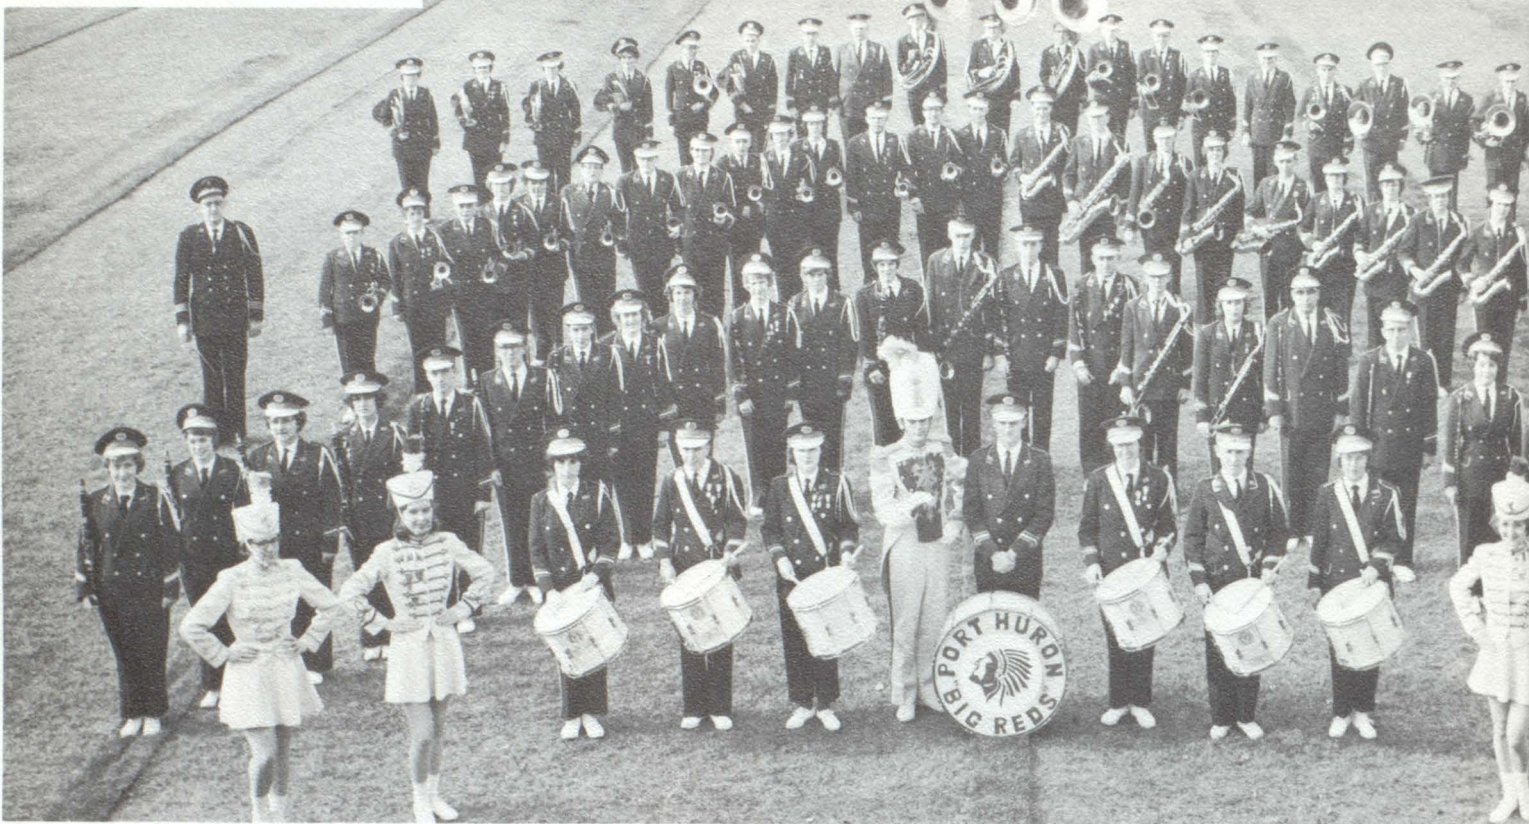

Football, soccer, track, and baseball activities afford the boys an opportunity to be members of a team. Much attention is given to the development of the body by requiring calisthenics. The boys are prepared to think clearly in an emergency through guided training in First Aid.

Sit-ups are part of the physical tests given to all physical education students.

Interest in music, theory, sight - seeing,

Janet Davis sings the students' favorite Christmas carol, "O Holy Night," at the Christmas Assembly.

What would a school be like without choral music? The familiar Christmas carols would not be echoed so enchantingly. . .P.H.H.S. would not be represented at the County Vocal Festival. . Underclassmen would not bid formal farewell to Seniors at Baccalaureate and Commencement. But how fortunate P.H.H.S. is with A Cappella Choir, Girls' Chorus, Boys' Chorus, Festival Choir, and Academic music.

Mr. Airtene, the new choir director, has succeeded in maintaining the high standards held by our Vocal Department.

Mr. Emigh explains how to make a proper turn at an intersection to students in driver's training class.

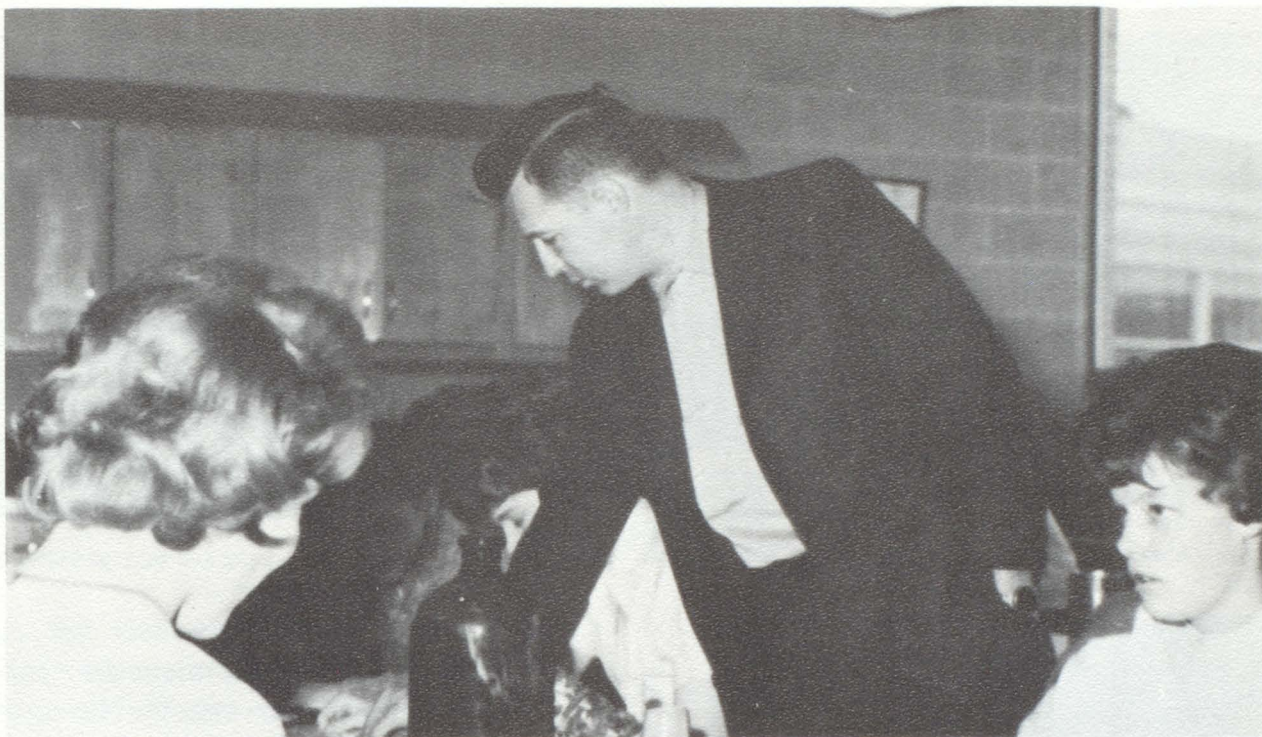

The driver education course takes approximately five weeks to complete. During this period, students learn the general operation of automobiles and the rules of driving. Text book, pamphlets, and road practice help to develop driving skill. With hope and anticipation, students look forward to passing the written and road test to receive their driver's license.

Mr. Morrison regulates traffic on the training strip. Mr. Hillaker takes students on "road tests."

a variety of electives. . .

Mr. Ishler demonstrates to one of his students a better way to achieve the desired effect of drawing still life with crayolas.

Painting, like any language, can be learned. The artist often leads to new ideas of far-reaching effect. Broad objectives and expressions are stressed. Textile painting, clay sculpture, silk screen printing, and work done in the various types of charcoal, pen and pencil, crayon, water colors, and colored chalk are all explored in art class.

Students of Mr. Ishler's art class are interested in their block printing from linoleum.

Working at Sears under the watchful eye of experienced personnel, these students receive experience in office work: Mr. Flink, Barbara Bell, Jill Redmond, Bonnie London, Sandra Moore, and Mrs. McParland.

Working at Kresge's in the afternoon are: Mamietta Speer, Joan Krampien, Margaret Simerson, and Brenda Thornton.

Behind the lunch counter at Kresge's Joan Krampien was found doing all things required to make customers content.

Mary Lang and Marlene Davis work as Franklins.

The high school broadens its curriculum offerings to meet the needs of the students through the Co-op Program. This training enables a student to have a balanced combination of subjects related to the various job activities. It prepares the student to take his place in the adult-workworld equipped with the necessary skills, attitudes, habits, and technical knowledge.

On the job, senior students are assigned simple beginning jobs in stores, offices, and shops and often progress to more responsible job activities.

Late in the spring the Co-op students get a diploma at a special graduation program at the high school. Friends, relatives, faculty members, and employers attend the exercises. After they receive their diplomas, a reception is held where graduates and their guests meet.

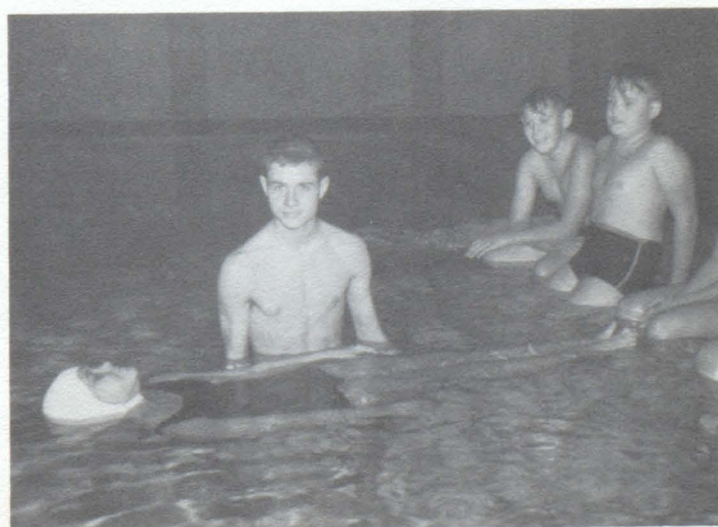

During the school year these students work at Mac Donald's System, Inc.: Gareth Nicholson, Kenneth Eastman, Larry Johnson, Ralph King, and John Gahns.

A number of students hold jobs at the school. Diane Gregg works as a Call Director in the Student Lounge.

in "Dear Delinquent". . .

Many hours of work goes into the production of the Senior play. Charles Carr, Pamela Fockler, and Robert Varty rehearse their lines before opening night.

The Senior play, "Dear Delinquent," was presented at McMorran Auditorium, December 7 and 8.

The play is an English situation-comedy concerning an illustrious family of thieves and what happens when one of them, a young lady is caught. The cast includes Cornelia Ruebig, as Penelope Shawn, the attractive housebreaker; Charles Carr, as David Warren, her "victim;" William Krause, as Henry Shawn, Penelop's sly father; Suzanne Culp, as Lady Warren, David's doting mother; Richard Van Haaften, as Sir George Martin, David's rich uncle; Pamela Fockler, as David's alluring fiancée; and Robert Varty, as Detective-Sergeant Pidgeon.

Mr. Elmer Malone was faculty director, assisted by Suzanne Green, student director.

Through the combined efforts and co-operation of students and teachers, the first-semester Student Council was made a success. Overcoming problems which were created by double sessions, the Council sponsored a successful homecoming. The Student Council first semester originated and carried out the idea of dime dances after basketball games. At Christmas time, the Christmas Tea was held to show our appreciation to all teachers. The canned food drive was held, the morning session competing against the afternoon session. The Council carried out class elections for ninth and tenth graders as well as for second-semester Student Council representatives. We tried our best to fulfill the duty of a Student Council and carry out the wishes of the student body.

At the beginning of second-semester the new Student Council had two main goals in mind. The first was to have a tremendous magazine sale, and the second was to have a good E.M.L. Conference which we host this year. The magazine sale turned in $13,700 which, although short of our goal, boosted last year's balance up by almost $5,000. Along with these projects the Student Council held the first pep assembly of the year in which the students, as well as teachers, participated. Buses were sent to away basketball games to support our team along with these assemblies. All this added up to a wonderful second-semester.

TOP ROW: Ruth Flaherty, Index Editor; Patricia Schmitt and Marsha Hill, Sports Co-Editors; Janet McDonald and Wilanne Ackerman, Activities Co-Editors; Carolyn Cline and Sharon Moss, Underclassmen Co-Editors.

The yearbook staff faces tasks this year that were never before known at P.H.H.S. Different areas must be surveyed, appointments to take pictures are difficult for students to meet, and more pages must be added to the book--all problems resulting from double sessions and the addition to the underclassmen section. But the "Student" staff meets the challenge and profits from the experience and excitement.

The subscription and distribution of the '63 yearbook requires more time and attention this year. Marilyn Sharrow takes time out of her job as Copy Editor to help Joanne McCullough, Ruth Flaherty, and Sandra Dortman record the subscriptions.

Karen Bloxom and William Krause exchange ideas on how to produce a newspaper that will be of greater interest to the students. William Krause stepped down as Editor-in-Chief to Karen Bloxom at the end of first semester.

Cheryl Davis, business manager, and Mary Hill, advertising manager, take charge of the business end of the newspaper.

"The Lighthouse"

The "Lighthouse" stands for loyalty and service. Its motto can be explained as loyalty to Port Huron High School, its institutions and traditions; service to the administration, faculty, students and community.

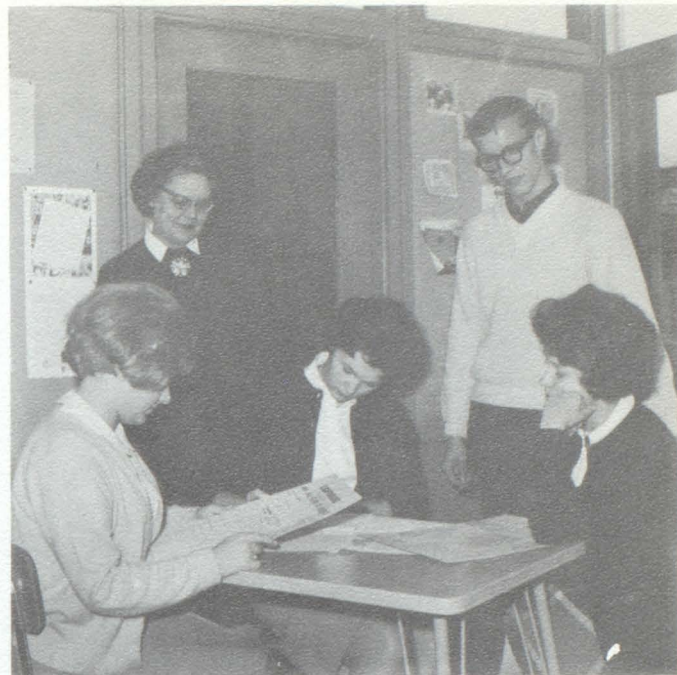

The "Lighthouse" has followed the trend of change this year with many changes in its form and layout. Larger editions, more pictures, new techniques in layout and headlines, along with an emphasis on publishing a light, readable newspaper have highlighted the changes in the '62-'63 "Lighthouse."

The "Lighthouse," a member of Quill and Scroll and Michigan Interscholastic Press Association, is published bi-weekly.

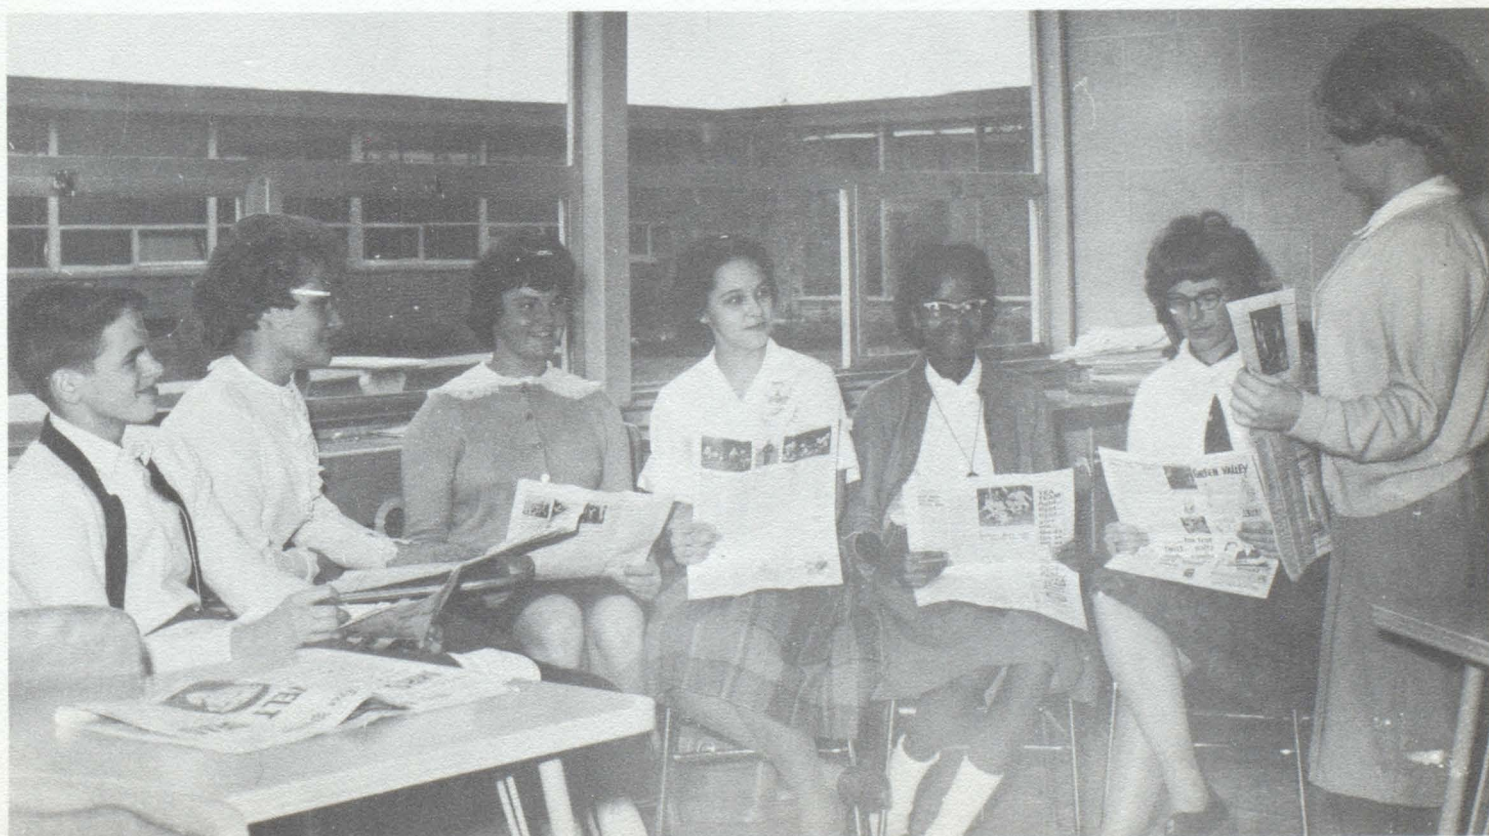

Typing final copy are Nancy Thompson and Maxine Muzzy, as Martha Ammerman and Cherie Millikin check for typographical errors.

Wilanne Ackerman and Charles Ingram agree that there are small Seniors and tall Seniors but no bad Seniors.

Linda Strang is surprised to find herself sad at the thought of leaving P.H.H.S.

"Our errors in the past, our gains in the future."

Glad times, sad times, wherever they go they'll hold the memories of a great Senior play, taking fourth place for their homecoming float, working half days or taking a class at Junior College, parading around on Senior dress-up day, the final Senior prom, and of course, graduation. The halls will be a little gloomy without the energetic Seniors.

But through all their fun and frolic, the Senior class of 1963 will always be remembered for their helpfulness towards the new ninth graders and the cooperation with the teachers during the first year of double sessions. Maybe they couldn't stay together as far as time schedules and classes were concerned, but they remained united in goals, ideas, and fun. Their fine example will be a "lighthouse," forever guiding the future senior classes at Port Huron High School.

As graduation nears, Seniors relate their year's trials and tribulations to the underclassmen.

Timothy Matts, a mighty Senior, tries a new approach to get his locker open.

Popular dances this year are the "mashed potato," "limbo," "twist," and the "popeye." The "twist" is the choice of Jane Haase and Michael Cook.

During study halls, before and after class, Seniors make good use of the library. Robert Huff, Barbara Jean Mechan, and Larry Davis do research for a term paper.

Spirits are high as Christman vacation draws near. Bernard Hunwick, Christopher Benedict, Donald Woolley, and Pat Maxwell mix work with play as they help with the annual Canned Food Drive.

Karen Haines looks on as Susan Beyer checks her registration so that she may vote. Mary Bronson assists with the registration cards.

Teachers are always working. Here, Mrs. Betty Sickelsteel and Mrs. Ruby Clemons are correcting papers during their prep hour.

Teachers participate in assemblies. . . teas. . .

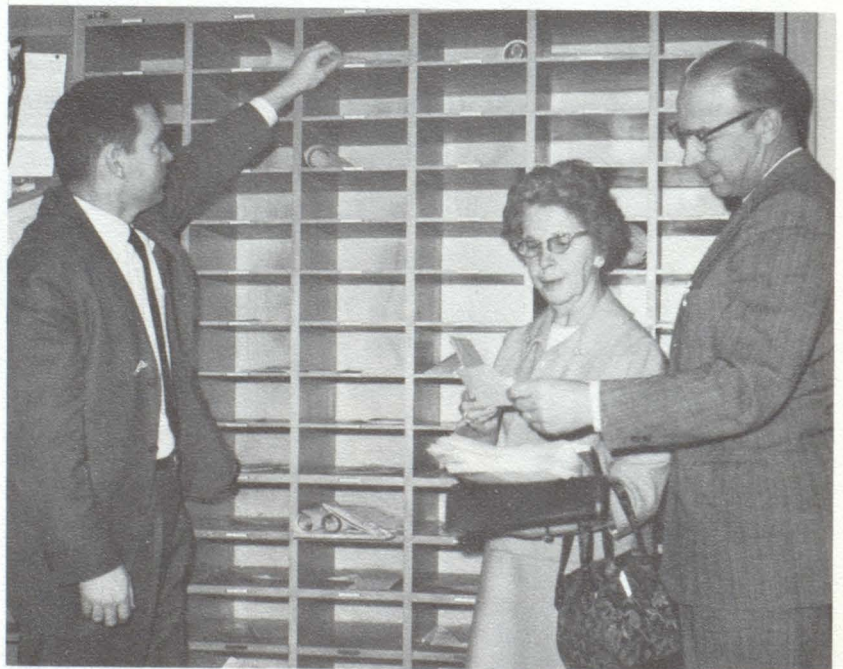

Miss Mary Leonard, Mrs. Fern Lindsay, Mrs. Helen Alexander, and Miss Loretta Blackburn listen as directions are given for beginning the second semester. All teachers meet often in the study hall for general staff meetings at noon. Frequently, the teachers of each session meet either morning or afternoon during their preparation periods.

Mr. Charles Stevens is most helpful to the students in selecting books of interest.

Teachers get their mail in the main office before going to home-rooms. Here, Mr. Ralph Harrison takes his daily bulletin as Miss Isabel MacLaren, Chairman of the English Department, consults Mr. Sommerville about a department meeting.

special meetings. . . conferences. . .

Antone Bonitouski, (Mr. Bonito) conducts his band at the pep assembly to raise the spirit against Mt. Clemens. The members of the Rubber Band are the members of the faculty staff. In the afternoon, Mr. Pittman made his performance as conductor.

Mrs. Roland Krupp serves at the annual Christmas tea given by the Student Council. Miss Mary Edwards, Miss Isabel MacLaren, and Miss Caroline Winborn are being served.

In Memoriam

Mrs. Virginia Forbes, of the office staff, has charge of the accounting of the school funds received throughout the year. It is not unusual to see stacks of bills on her desk. One of her many duties is to sort the daily change which is delivered to the bank.

Donna Emlaw and Joyce Maynard are competent office staff members who are always willing to help the students and teachers. Through piles of typing, mounds of class dues receipts, and hundreds of envelopes to stamp, one can count on the office personnel to get the job done.

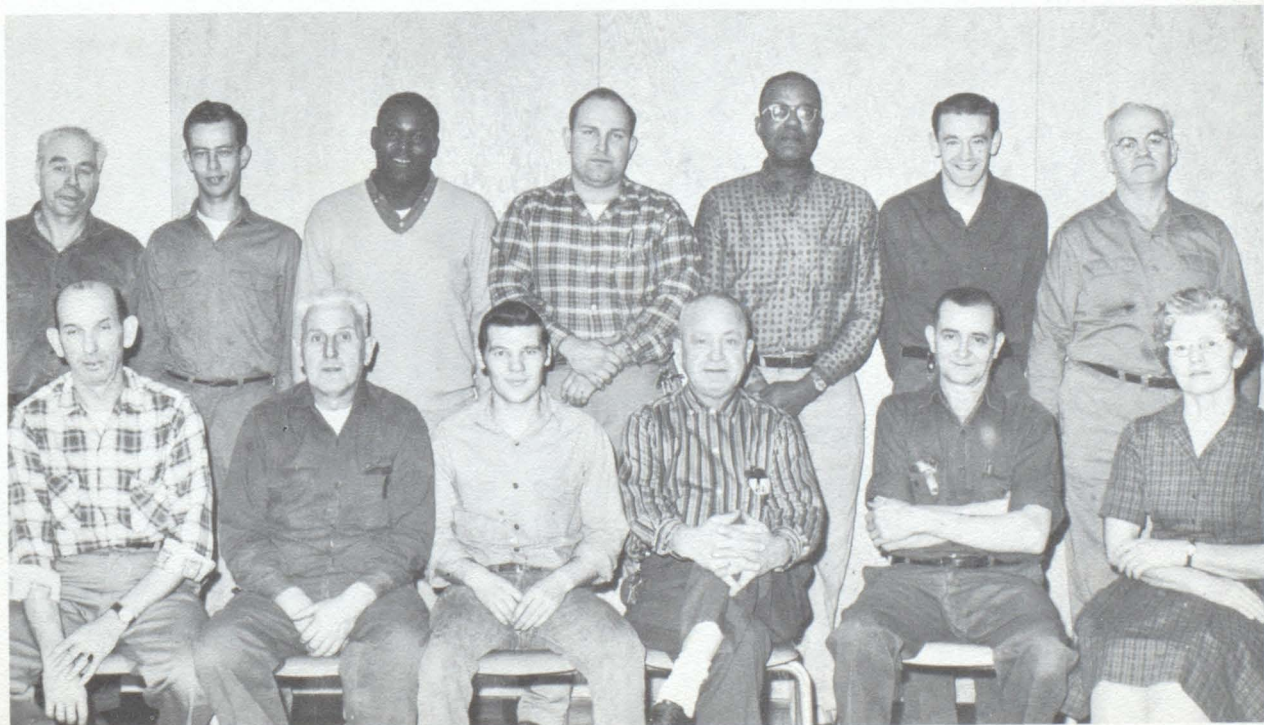

"Mr. Cleans" keep school sparkling...

Irene Burns, Luella Frasier, Marjorie Jamison, and Mildred Morrish, Cafeteria Staff members, busily prepare for the snack periods and the noon-hour lunch rush. Other staff members: June Lewandowski, Meryle McDougal, Leona Miller, Emilie Nurenberg, and Pauline Mitchel.

SEATED: Alex Dortman Joseph Perukel, William Wolvin, Manville Miller, Dale Myers, and Mina Beedon. STANDING: Frank McPherson,

EASTERN MICHIGAN COLLEGE OF COMMERCE offers graduates of Port Huron and vicinity an opportunity to complete an approved business course ranging from 9 to 20 months without leaving the community. Graduates who have started commercial courses in high school may complete such courses in less than the scheduled period of time. Because of its proximity to the Blue Water district, courses may be completed without the expense of board and room away from home.

THE STAFF AND ADMINISTRATION of the College join in wishing the graduates of Port Huron High the best of everything, and cordially invite them to join its student body if the best of business education is desired.

Memories

Thank You

Yearbook Editor Linda Alexis relaxes and is surprised that the final deadline is finally met.

I appreciate the wonderful co-operation I received from members of the yearbook staff, our advisor, Mrs. Daphne Rantanen, and Mr. Al Weatherly Jr.--everyone worked untiringly in coping with the seemingly insurmountable obstacles in the production of the '63 Student. Thank you.

In behalf of the yearbook staff, I express sincere appreciation for the kind assistance of the following people: Our Administrators, The Faculty, Students, Mrs. Lindsay's and Miss Birdsall's Typing classes, Mr. Frank Fulkerson, Photographer; Dorothy Emerick, Art Work; Mrs. Clara Wellman, Mrs. Virginia Forbes, Greg Bruen, Photographer; and the Times Herald.

I am sure I speak for everyone at PHHS when I thank the Business and Professional men for their interest in our yearbook project.

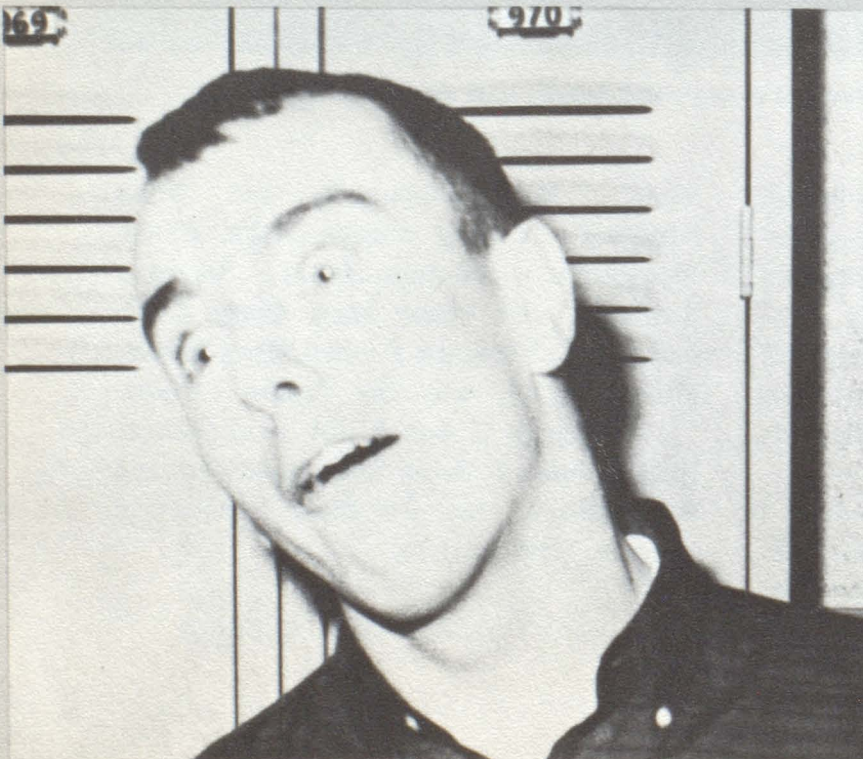

Linda Alexis, Editor

A Remembrance. . .

You can tell a freshman by the way he walks. . .

You can tell a sophomore by the way she talks. . .

You can tell a junior by the way he gauks. . .

from the Class of '63

But you can tell a Senior nothing!

School Alma Mater

Let us join our hearts together
As we pledge our loyalty,
And we'll look to Alma Mater
For hopes to cherish endlessly.

In our hearts that are united
Are thoughts that never die,
We will keep in memory always
This our own Port Huron High.

Though the years ahead may number
More than those we've left behind,
Still the dreams will always linger
In our hearts, our lives, and our minds.

And may always we endeavor
To make achievements great,
So Port Huron may be proud
Of all those who graduate.
